EXTRA SUBMARINE DEAD NOW 138

TANZER GIRL'S LOVE STORY

BRITISH DENOUNCE GERMANS

LONDON, March 30.—Wrath swept England today over the sinking of the liner Falaba and steamer Aquila by a German submarine, with the loss of 138 lives, and the demands were made on all sides that the submarine crews now held prisoners be immediately tried as pirates.

The storm of anger is greater than that aroused by the bombardment of Scarborough, Whitby and Hartlepool.

The stories of the passengers of the Falaba that the German sailors on the submarine which sank the liner jeered at men and women struggling for their lives in the water, while unconfirmed by the Admiralty, were accepted as true by the English public and press.

The newspapers denounce the Germans as "infamous savages and murderers," asserting that it is necessary to try submarine prisoners now held in England as pirates "in order to teach Germany that her flagrant disregard of the rules of civilization cannot go unpunished."

Denies Grecian Offer to Bulgars

ATHENS, March 30.—Former Premier Venizelos, leader of a strong political party in Greece, issued a statement today denying that he had offered to surrender Kavalla to Bulgaria during his term of office in order to avert any Bulgarian attack upon Greece.

"No territorial concessions were considered while I was in office," said M. Venizelos. "It is true, however, that the Triple Entente asked Greece not to insist that Servia should refuse to make territorial concessions to Bulgaria as the price of Bulgarian neutrality."

Say Von Kluck and Kaiser Quarreled

AMSTERDAM, March 30.—According to travelers from Berlin, General Von Kluck was wounded after a stormy interview with the Kaiser at the front. At the conclusion of the interview, Von Kluck, greatly excited, rushed to the most dangerous position on the field with the apparent intention of being shot. It is reported the Kaiser will appoint Prince Eitel as Von Kluck's successor.

Archbishop Ireland in Excellent Health

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 30.—A report that Archbishop Ireland was seriously ill was declared today to be wholly false. At the Archbishop's house it was stated the report was "utter nonsense." The Archbishop's secretary said the prelate was in excellent health.

JOHNSON'S HUGE BUT HE'S FAST, SAYS ED SMITH

By ED. W. SMITH.
Famous Fight Referee and Ring Expert.

HAVANA, Cuba, March 30.—If Jack Johnson loses the fight with Jess Willard next Monday it won't be because he has lost his old ego. He is as strong as ever with it. Despite the fact that many think Johnson is in poor condition, the former confidence is there.

I saw Jack for the first time last night since the Las Vegas Johnson-Flynn fight and he looks as good as ever. I just had time to get from the boat to the camp to watch the finish of his workout. He is heavy, no doubt, but is now only twelve pounds heavier than he was when he fought Moran in Paris on July. He is burly and big all over, but the flesh does not lay too prominently over the waistline.

The back, shoulders, arms and legs all have it. He simply has got bigger than ever before. It is not bigness so much as burliness that impresses. The speed is all there. He was fast on his feet in the workout, had the same old speed with his head and hands, and if he ever has dissipated he does not show it.

JOHNSON CONFIDENT.

"Win? You know I will," Johnson said. "Why not? Willard must hit me and he can't. Worried over his size? I never worried in my life. I am made of iron. I must be. I never really fretted over a fight yet and just can't now. They say I must win in an hour or I won't last. Bosh. He can't last an hour and if he does he won't be worth much.

"Willard is too slow with his head and size don't count against superior skill and speed. This is my climate, not his. He will fight during the hottest part of the day. Willard trains in the shade; I'm in the sun. It makes a big difference, he'll find.

"I need this extra weight against him. I won't be bothered by it long as it does not hurt my speed. I was never more certain, and will win in less some accident comes."

A big crowd of fans and critics got in today and made the town look like a real centre. A fight has never been held in a place as big or good as this and everybody is fight wild. The town and near country is sure to turn out big. The seat sale is large and they claim the expenses of $64,000 are now almost in.

WILLARD LOOKS BETTER.

Willard looks even better than at El Paso and is in perfect form. The doctors say his mental attitude continues fine, and he is just as confident as Johnson.

Johnson has a great following here. He will carry a heavy wad into the ring, for sentiment is queerly divided, the blacks here betting as heavily on Willard as on their own color.

Whites, too, are split similarly. Queer freaks in bets are made, but it is mostly 7 to 5, with Johnson the favorite. Two to one is grabbed by the Willard people.

SAYS SHE LOVED OSBORNE TO DESPERATION

NEW YORK, March 30.—Miss Rae Tanzer, the chief figure in the mysterious Osborne case, in which she sued James W. Osborne, the well-known lawyer, for $50,000, charging he promised to marry her, and then admitted she mistook him for "Oliver Osborne," her former suitor, today told her own story.

She declares she loved Oliver Osborne to desperation and became his sweetheart because he promised to marry her.

She says she believed James W. Osborne and Oliver Osborne were the same man up to the time of the hearing before Commissioner Houghton after she had been arrested on a charge of using the mails to defraud. She makes her statement, facing the possibility of prosecution, as Federal District Attorney Marshall says five indictments for conspiracy are being considered. Her story follows:

By RAE TANZER.

The Oliver Osborn I loved is not James W. Osborne, the lawyer.

I did not realize that I had been mistaken until I had brought upon myself a load of shame and disgrace which has nearly driven me crazy.

I met Oliver Osborne, who appeared so like James W. Osborne that I continued on in the illusion until I found an abyss yawning before me.

I believed the man who promised to marry me was the former district attorney until I saw him in Commissioner Houghton's chambers.

At the hearing when I identified James W. Osborne as Oliver Osborne I was almost paralyzed with a nervous dread which seemed to numb my senses.

I loved Oliver Osborne to des-

F-4 Moved 300 Feet Shoreward

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels today received a cablegram from Admiral Moore at Honolulu, announcing that Commander Smith, of the First Submarine Division, has succeeded in moving the lost submarine F-4 three hundred feet shoreward from the point where she was located last night.

A dispatch last night stated that the F-4 was lying under 300 feet of water 2,800 yards from the Honolulu light house.

SWINDLER SWALLOWS CYANIDE

After being pronounced dead by a physician, Willard C. Wallace, the "Beau Brummell" prisoner who attempted suicide by taking poison in his cell at the city prison today, was brought back to life at the Haymarket Square Relief Hospital.

The method used by the hospital physician was the "manual massage," in which the heart is artificially worked with the hands. It was the first use of this means of restoring life in a poisoning case in Boston.

Wallace was lifeless for nine minutes. He was literally "raised from the dead" by the application of surgical science.

This afternoon Wallace was still alive, and the doctors said he had a "fighting chance" for his life.

The police called the restoration to life of Wallace, who was arrested as a swindler of sums aggregating

BORDER CRISIS BEFORE CABINET

WASHINGTON, March 30.—With three batteries of the Third Field Artillery en route to Brownsville, Tex., President Wilson and his Cabinet today took up the threatening situation again created along the Mexican border by the battle at Matamoras.

The course this government will take should the Mexican belligerents ignore the warning not to fire across the river into Brownsville was discussed. No statement was made as to just what action will be taken, but the belief prevailed that the administration will wait for developments before making any further move.

Warnings already have been served on the Carranza and Villa commanders that American life and property must not be exposed to danger by reckless firing toward the border, and the agencies here of the factions have given assurances that United States territory will be respec-

ITALY DELAYS ACTION TILL MAY

ROME, March 30.—Another sudden shift in the diplomatic situation has postponed Italy's entrance into the war. The cause of the change in the government's plans has not yet been learned, but it was learned from a reliable source today that Italy will not embark in the general European conflict until May, if at all.

Within the last two days the interventionist press has curbed its activities and instead of urging the government to open hostilities at once, intimates there is grave doubt of the advisability of such action at present.

The climax of the Jingo campaign was apparently reached when the allies' fleet opened its general attack upon the Dardanelles and the British troops began their offensive in Flanders. Neither has been carried to a successful conclusion, and to this is attributed the change in Italian public opinion, which in general has been that Italy should enter the war only

SUBMARINE ACT STIRS ENGLAND

According to the best estimates obtainable, the sinking of the Falaba and Aquila resulted in the loss of 138 lives, 112 from the Falaba and 26 from the Aquila.

The scene at the sinking of the Falaba presented a terrible picture, according to the story of survivors.

SURVIVING PASSENGER'S STORY.

One passenger, Lester Smalley, gave the folowing account of the destruction of the ship:

"It was about 11:30 o'clock Sunday morning when it became known that we were being chased by a German submarine. Captain Davis of the Falaba ordered full steam ahead in an effort to outdistance the pursuer, but it was soon seen that we were being overhauled.

"During the forty-five minutes that the chase lasted the utmost excitement prevailed on board, but even at that none of us suspected that the German would sink us in cold blood before all the passengers were off the ship.

"Ot was about fifteen minutes after 12 o'clock when the submarine came within hailing distance. She had previously fired a rocket as a signal to us to lower the boats and they had been swung out from the davits.

"When the under-water boat drew within shouting distance I was amazed at her size. She must have been nearly 350 feet long and was equipped with a gun. She also carried a wireless outfit. The captain stood out in plain view and hailed Captain Davis of the Falaba, saying in perfect English:

"Get your passengers into the boats immediately, for I am going to sink your ship."

In the meantime the gun had been trained against the Falaba, but was not fired.

A terrible scene ensued. Panic stricken women surged across the decks weeping and shouting hysterically. Even some of the members of the crew lost their heads, and many persons leaped over the rail into the water.

So quickly did the sailors try to work that they became clumsy in their haste and some of the boats were swamped.

Men and women could be seen in the water crying for help and some of them were drowned beneath our very eyes.

"CYNICAL GRIN" OF COMMANDER.

"The commander of the German submarine stood upon the bridge of his craft with a cynical grin upon his face as he surveyed the terror he had created.

"At that time the submarine was less than 100 yards away.

"Suddenly the German officer disappeared and immediately afterwards an object sped through the water leaving a foamy wake.

"Torpedo, torpedo," was the cry that went up, and many of those who remained upon the Falaba ran toward the bow or the stern.

"The torpedo struck us amidships with a slight explosion and immediately the ship heeled over and began to settle. The panic on board had been bad enough before. It now became an inferno of terror.

"I am told that one boat was actually being lowered when the submarine fired at us. Just before this an incident occurred which may have hastened the destruction of our ship.

"The wireless operator told Captain Davis that he thought he could communicate with the Land's End station. Captain Davis told him to go ahead. But no sooner were the first few sparks made than the German captain raised a megaphone to his lips and shouted angrily:

"'I won't try to use that wireless apparatus.'"

CAPTAIN DIES A HERO.

"A number of the crew of the submarine crowded up to witness the scene when the ship went down, and we could see them laughing among themselves.

"It was a grewsome spectacle, worse than any shipwreck I would not be surprised if some of the passengers were made maniacs by what they were compelled to go through.

"Captain Davis died a hero. He refused to desert his ship and was drowned."

The Falaba left Liverpool at about the same hour on Saturday as the Anchor liner Transylvania, running temporarily under the Cunard flag and the White Star liner Cymric. Both sailed for New York with large passenger lists, including some prominent Americans.

Both vessels could not have been far distant from the scene of the Falaba's doom, although the latter vessel naturally steered a more coastwise course. Among the passengers aboard the Transylvania are Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Chandler Hale, Joseph Herriman and D. W. Bowen, the Indianapolis and Chicago newspaper publisher.

One of the German submarine raiders was recognized as the U-28.

The Falaba, one of the largest of the Elder-Dempster fleets, left Liverpool at 6 o'clock Saturday evening. She had on board about 140 passengers and a crew numbering about 100. About mid-day Sunday, when the liner was off the Pembrokeshire coast, near Small's lightship, the submarine appeared about 300 yards to the starboard, flying the German ensign.

She made three signals to the Falaba, the liner's officers state, including a signal to stop. Escape was impossible. The submarine proved herself some six knots better than the Falaba, and Captain Davis states he stopped and prepared to launch his boats.

Just as the first boat touched the water, an explosion occurred which blew it to pieces and threw all the passengers into the water, according to the survivors. The second and third boats were stove in as they were being lowered. Only one boat, bearing fourteen persons, was successfully launched.

There is some doubt about the exact number of minutes of grace accorded by the German commander, but passengers agree that well within ten minutes the Falaba was torpedoed at 100 yards range, when the Germans could not fail to see the deck was crowded.

When a boat was actually half way down the davits a torpedo struck near the engine room and the Falaba sank.

Some help, though not enough was at hand, according to the Falaba's officers. The steam drifter Eileen Emma of Lowestoft, had seen the submarine and followed her. She was only some 200 yards away when the Falaba was torpedoed, and at once went to the rescue.

Over 100 persons were picked up alive and six dead were recovered.

SAW TORPEDO COMING.

Another passenger gave the following account:

"One boat was actually half-way down the davits, full of passengers, when the submarine torpedoed her without further warning.

"I distinctly saw the torpedo coming, in fact it came straight toward where we were standing. We ran to the fore part of the ship to escape it. The torpedo struck the vessel amidships, and the Falaba immediately gave a list to starboard and went down about ten minutes afterward.

"There was a slight explosion. We were struck, but it was not very loud, more like the report of a small gun.

"All the passengers had been served with life belts and, when I got into the water, I seized hold of a floating buoy. For an hour I was in the water floating. I had to make my way through wreckage and a number of dead bodies, and at last we were picked up by one of our own boats."

Dr. Percival said:

TELLS OF HEROIC DEED.

"I saw one heroic deed on the part of a passenger. He was on one of the boats which was just about to be pulled away from the sinking vessel when he looked up and saw a young stewardess standing on deck. He immediately clambered on the vessel and, handing her his life belt, told her to jump into the boat, but she would not. I think she was afraid to take the jump. Both he and the woman sank with the vessel.

"The wireless operator on the Falaba kept on sending out S. O. S. signals and only ceased when told by an officer that, if he did not, the submarine captain had threatened to sink us at once without giving us time to get out the boats.

"While the Germans on the submarine made no effort to save us, I must admit I did not see any jeering or laughing. They stood on the deck watching our efforts to save ourselves."

GERMANS DRIVEN FROM HEUDICOURT

PARIS, March 30.—German troops have been forced to evacuate the village of Heudicourt, northeast of St. Mihiel, it was announced in today's official communication from the War Office. The German evacuation was caused by a heavy artillery fire directed upon Heudicourt by the French troops, who are attempting to force back the German wedge which for several months has extended as far as St. Mihiel. Heudicourt is only seventeen miles from Metz, the great German stronghold.

The communique also reports that a German aviator threw bombs upon Rheims Monday, wounding two persons. The text of the communique follows: "The night of March 29 was calm on practically all the front.

"A German aviator threw bombs upon Rheims. Two persons were wounded. One projectile fell on the apse of the Cathedral.

"A well directed fire from our artillery forced the enemy to evacuate in disorder the village of Heudicourt, northeast of St. Mihiel."

MANY ARTILLERY DUELS.

Half a dozen violent artillery duels are reported from various parts of the mighty battlefront that lies between the North Sea and the Swiss frontier. French and Belgian artillery positions at Nieuport were shelled and a bridge which the Belgians had recently constructed over the Yser in West Flanders was destroyed by the Germans.

In the Neuve Chapelle district the Germans concentrated the British position for twelve hours with heavy guns and the English replied by shelling the heights held by the Germans to the southeast of Neuve Chapelle.

Rheims has again been bombarded by the Germans' artillery. At Bourgogne, Lavannes and Epoye, in Champagne, and on the heights of the Meuse, the German guns are again in action against the French.

Military men arriving here from the front grow more and more emphatic in their praise of the French 75 guns, which are continually demonstrating their superiority over German ordnance. The 75 can fire from twenty to twenty-five shells a minute. The German 77, which is modelled after the French gun, can, in theory, do the same thing, but it does not possess the automatic firing mechanism of the French gun.

FRENCH RAIN SHELLS.

French infantry can charge within fifty yards of a German trench while their own guns are firing over their heads, two miles in the rear.

The expert French gunners can throw such a rain of shells against the German trenches and with such accuracy that the Germans cannot show their heads above the trench line to fire upon the attacking forces.

This has been of great advantage in the Champagne region, where the soil is heavy and where a rapid charge by infantry is impossible.

During recent fighting at Nieuport a battery of French 75s prevented the Germans from taking the town. The Belgians were retreating, pursued by the exultant Teutons. The demoralized Belgian troops threw away their arms. It began to look as though the Germans would sweep across the bridge into the town.

Suddenly a battery of French 75s opened fire from its position among the willows about three-quarters of a mile from Nieuport. One hundred shells a minute thundered out from the battery, the gunners warning to their work as the advancing German host began to waver.

Three heavy German howitzers, which had dropped "Jack Johnsons" upon the ruined village of Ramscapelle all day, shifted their fire to silence the 75s.

RUSSIANS CLAIM NIEMEN VICTORY

PETROGRAD, March 30.—Complete victory for the Russian troops on the front west of the Niemen River in Poland, with further success in the Carpathians and the Caucasus, was officially announced by the War Office early today. The German advance against the Niemen was fully checked on March 27 and the Russians have now taken the offensive in that region.

In the Carpathians the Russian corps which penetrated Dukla Pass and entered Hungary is driving a wedge between the eastern and western Austro-German forces, which are reported to be on the verge of retirement all along the front.

Turkish troops in the Caucasus have been defeated in Techorokh Gorge, but by a raid into Russian territory they succeeded in reaching Artwin and set that town on fire. The following summary of operations in the Niemen River region was issued at the War Office:

"The Germans attached enormous importance to their offensive to the trans-Niemen district. This failed completely on March 27 and our troops have taken the offensive against the enemy, which was defeated in its attacks."

CREW TO EXAMINE GERMAN CAMPS

Joseph Clark Crew of Boston, first secretary to the American Embassy at Berlin, sportsman and diplomat of wide experience, is slated to be chairman of the American commission which Germany is to appoint to inspect concentration camps of allied prisoners, according to cabled information today from Berlin, via London.

The remaining members of this neutral commission, which is to investigate charges of maltreatment of prisoners by Germany, will probably be as follows:

Charles Edward Russell of New York City, author, former newspaper publisher, Socialist and recent candidate for Governor of New York on the Socialist ticket.

Dr. Carl Ohnesorg of the United States Navy.

L. Osborne of New York, son of Chairman Thomas Mott Osborne of New York Prison Reform Commission.

American consul at Cologne, Charles Adams Holder of Colorado Springs.

Joseph Clark Crew, who is scheduled to be chairman of this commission, authorized by the German government, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sturgis Crew of 183 Marlboro street. He was educated at Groton School and at Harvard (1902). He married Miss Alice de Vermandois Perry of Boston in 1905.

He began his diplomatic career a year before his marriage, when he was appointed clerk to the American consul at Cairo. Then he was successfully third embassy secretary at Mexico City, at St. Petersburg, secretary at Berlin, then first secretary at Vienna, and at times charge d'affaires, and finally first secretary at Berlin, to which embassy he was appointed in 1913.

He has written on travel and adventure in the National Geographical Society and member of the Travelers', the Harvard Clubs of Boston, Imperial Automobile Clubs of Vienna and Berlin and the Hoone and Crockett Clubs of New York.

He has shot big game from the tiger of the Kashmir highlands to the tiger of the Chinese caves and jungles.

Major Operation on Horse Report "Patient" Better

Horse strapped to giant operating table and being chloroformed for operation in the Angell Memorial Hospital.

The first major operation ever performed on a horse was held at the new Angell Memorial Hospital of the Massachusetts Humane Society, on Longwood avenue, today. The operation, which consumed exactly one hour, was pronounced a success. It was performed by Drs. F. J. Flanagan and H. F. Dudley, the hospital veterinarians.

The "patient" was a big, draught horse which weighed 2,250 pounds. Throughout the ordeal of the operation it behaved most commendably. This fact contributed much toward the success of the operation.

The animal was suffering from a growth on the right fore-leg. This growth is technically known as a "shoe boil." It was an acute case. An immediate operation was necessary.

The horse was led into the operating room at 10 o'clock. It was then strapped to the great operating table recently installed at the hospital. Once strapped securely the animal was then given chloroform. It required exactly one pint of this to render the "patient" unconscious.

The operation was then started by Dr. Flanagan. He was assisted by Dr. Dudley. The ailing leg was deftly opened. The growth was then removed with skilled hands. The "boil" weighed over five pounds.

The operation was performed with all the careful attention which marks an operation on a human being. The veterinaries were neat, white tunic forms. Their instruments were sterilized. Two attendants stood at hand, administering their every want.

Once the incision had been made and the growth removed, the wound was carefully cleansed with antiseptics. With equal care it was then bandaged, several yards of wide, cotton cloth being thus utilized. Still unconscious, the "patient" was then released from the table, carefully placed on a truck and wheeled to the "convalescent ward."

Dr. Flanagan, who appeared much satisfied with the operation, said:

"The animal was suffering from a growth which made it unfit for labor. We decided on an operation. It was the only thing under the circumstances. The horse stood it very well. I believe the operation was a fine success. The animal will surely be saved for future use.

"Another operation by the same physicians for a minor ailment was scheduled for the afternoon.

GIRL'S ABDUCTOR REPORTED DYING

Thomas H. Ryan, abductor of fourteen-year-old Susan Tallent of Revere street, who is now held in $10,000 bail for the Grand Jury action on the charge of abduction and of a serious offence, is dying at the Charles street jail.

Ryan, who was a former inmate of the prison camp at Rutland, has had seven hemorrhages of the lungs in the past three weeks, and has also suffered a stroke of paralysis, so that his entire right side is affected.

Dr. Orrin G. Giley, the jail physician, is in constant attendance on Ryan, but fears that his chances for recovery are slight.

Ryan was arrested on a charge of abducting the Tallent girl on March 2. He took the girl to a room in a South End lodging house and kept her there for two days. The girl was then permitted to go home. She identified a picture of Ryan in the rogues' gallery. Ryan's arrest followed. He pleaded guilty to abduction in the lower court and waived examination on the more serious charge.

He was held in $10,000 bail for the April Suffolk Grand Jury, when the Justice in the lower court declined jurisdiction.

Water Shortage May Hit Towns

The smaller communities of Massachusetts are expected to suffer severely unless the drouth, unprecedented in fifty years, is soon broken. Without an exceptional amount of rain in the next few months the shortage will come early in July and continue into the Fall.

Weston, Brockton, Worcester, Fall River, New Bedford, Taunton and Pittsfield are practically immune from any other famine because of their great storage systems.

Curley Wants Walsh to Make Chicago Trip

A four days' trip to Chicago for the purpose of studying the Chicago belt line terminal system, has been planned by Mayor Curley for Governor Walsh, the members of the Legislative Committee on Metropolitan affairs and Chairman John N. Cole of the Boston Industrial development board. The trip is suggested in connection with the Mayor's plan for State ownership of Boston terminals.

EXONERATE MEN ON GIRL'S DEATH

The failure of chemical analysts by Professor Whitney of Harvard Medical School to reveal poison or drug in the stomach of Miss Esther H. Ryan, who died in Cambridge Hospital on March 12, caused the discharge in Cambridge District Court today of Joseph St. Perre, North Cambridge druggist, and Bernard J. LeBlond of Somerville, a Standard Oil stenographer, who were charged with manslaughter in connection with the girl's death.

The defendants were brought before Judge Almy. Chief Inspector Patrick J. Hurley asked that they be discharged, as there was no evidence against them. They were immediately released.

Esther A. Ryan was taken to Cambridge Hospital from a sidewalk on Milton street, near Massachusetts avenue, on the Somerville line. She was found on the sidewalk unconscious at 3 o'clock in the morning.

After St. Pierre and LeBland were arrested the police said that they admitted that they had taken Miss Ryan and a girl companion from a Boston cafe to St. Pierre's drug store that night, and that the other girl had returned to Boston.

It was reported that Miss Ryan had swallowed a drug. Medical Examiner William B. Swan performed an autopsy and found the girl's stomach to Professor Whitney. Yesterday the professor's report of absence of drug or poison in Miss Ryan's stomach was sent to Dr. Swan, who transmitted it to Chief Inspector Hurley.

The failure of the drug theory leaves only natural causes to account for the girl's death.

"Al" Jones, Printer, Dies Suddenly

Al Jones, one of the best-known printers of Boston and the United States, died at the City Hospital early today of pneumonia. He was born in Salem forty-five years ago and learned the art of printing in that city. In his early years he traveled extensively, and had handled copy in all the large newspapers in the United States and Canada. In 1894 he made a tour of England and Scotland, working in many of the cities in those countries. In later years he settled down, coming both to Boston, and labored for the last eighteen years in the composing rooms of the Boston Globe and AMERICAN, being on the latter paper at the time of his death.

He resided at No. 56 Dudley street, and leaves a wife and two children.

Rival Firms Seek to Put Bernhardt on Her Feet Again

WASHINGTON, March 30.—An exciting contest is on between Washington and Baltimore as to which city shall have the honor of furnishing Sarah Bernhardt with an artificial leg. Both are anxious to supply the member on which Mme Bernhardt may make another "farewell tour" of this country. Hardly had a Washington firm announced that it was sending men abroad to boost the artificial limb business, an industry stimulated by the European war, than a Baltimore firm made a similar claim.

May Help if You Have Tuberculosis

Proper diet, fresh air and temperate habits aid patients suffering from Tuberculosis, often more is needed. Reports show that Eckman's Alterative has helped when many remedies failed. Read what it did in this case:

Madison Lake, Minn.

"Gentlemen:—In December, 1908, I was taken with hemorrhages of the lungs, which confined me several weeks, each time to my bed. My doctor advised me to go West. In November I started for Denver, Col. After my arrival I met Michael Brody, who, upon learning of my condition, urged me to take Eckman's Alterative. I kept on taking the medicine and improved fast. In March, 1910, I returned home, I am entirely well, have a good appetite and sleep well. When I left Denver my weight was 130 pounds. I now weigh 158, my normal weight. I thank God and your Alterative for my health." (Abbreviated.)

(Affidavit) PAUL L. PASSACHE.

Eckman's Alterative is most effective in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and specialities of the system. Contains no harmful habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitutes. Small size $1.0 regular size $5.00. Sold by leading druggists. Write for booklet of testimonials.

RESCUE 300 IN HARBOR AT FRISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—With 300 passengers on board, mostly women and children, including forty-five orphans, the General Frisbie, a bay steamer struck a submerged rock 100 yards off shore and began to sink.

Lifeboats from United States warships anchored close by immediately took off all hands and brought them ashore. All, it is said, are accounted for. Panic prevailed on the steamer.

The vessel is supported by the rock and probably will be saved.

PRISONER WHO WAS DECLARED DEAD IS RESTORED TO LIFE

$4,100, a "triumph of surgery," and gave the praise for the successful application of the "manual massage" trained to Dr. William Brickley of the hospital staff.

Dr. Brickley not only suggested the method, but personally applied it. The poison Wallace took was cyanide of potassium, one of the most deadly of poisons. He reached the hospital at 9:25 a. m.

Then Dr. Brickley directed the use of the stomach pump. The doctors gave it as their opinion the alleged swindler must have taken an unusually large dose of the deadly drug.

Dr. Brickley, assisted by eight other physicians and attendants, used various emergency methods. For more than an hour they worked, but it failed.

At 10:45 there were no signs of life in Wallace's body.

At 10:51 he was pronounced dead by Dr. Brickley.

Standing nearby was Dr. Walters, the acting medical examiner, in the absence of Dr. Magrath. To Dr. Walters, Dr. Brickley said:

"This man is dead, and it is now your case. But I would like to try the manual massage of the heart to see what can be done."

"Go ahead," said Dr. Walters.

Quickly Dr. Brickley worked. He made an abdominal incision, large enough for the insertion of his hand. Through this incision ran his right hand, upward under the chest. With his right hand the doctor clutched the dead man's heart.

With this left hand the doctor began pressing and massaging the ribs over the heart.

The effect was rapid.

The treatment had apparently started the blood to circulating again, for Wallace's face which had turned purple now became red, as if flushed.

"That's good," said one of the doctors. "Life is returning."

In a short time the blood was evidently coursing through Wallace's body.

Dr. Brickley worked until he was physically exhausted. Another doctor took his place. Other doctors followed in turn.

Finally after more than an hour the palpitator was applied.

Meanwhile the pressing and massaging of the ribs had aroused the whole over Wallace's heart, so emphatic had the doctors kept at their work, of making the restoration a complete one.

When the pulmotor was applied, Wallace was unconscious, but he breathed.

In the meantime the police were investigating in the hope of finding where and how Wallace had secured the cyanide. The clew came in his spectacle case. Here they found a very small, thin vial about an inch and a half long. This was full of cyanide.

The police said Wallace must have had another, similar vial and must have taken its entire contents before throwing it away.

That he had taken poison did not become known until Inspector Coughlin of police headquarters went to Wallace's cell in the city tombs early after 9 o'clock today. The inspector was to take the alleged swindler to Detroit, to be photographed and measured.

Coughlin rang near the cell door. Wallace said:

"Good Morning."

TOOK DRINK OF WATER.

Then Wallace took a drink of water. He said to the inspector as the door opened: "I have taken the strongest poison known."

Coughlin said:

"What do you take?"

Wallace replied he was cyanide of potassium; said he had secreted it on his clothing, and gave as his reason for suicide: "Because I am up against it."

He then collapsed and was hurried to the hospital.

To the police Wallace's attempt recalled the dramatic suicide of "Diamond Chip" Robinson in a cell at the Charles street jail. Robinson killed himself while being tried for the slaying of Police Inspector Norton and gained the name of being a "Beau Brummell."

The police declared that Wallace's career was in many respects as remarkable as that of Robinson. When arrested Wallace had in his pockets $200 in bills, was well dressed, wore a handsome diamond stickpin, a diamond ring and carried a valuable watch.

He was arrested after word was sent to headquarters by a detective agency that one of their sleuths had trailed Wallace across the country from Portland, Oregon, and that the man was wanted for obtaining large sums of money from various banks by means of forged checks.

ARRESTED IN HOTEL.

He was arrested as one of the downtown hotels as a fugitive from justice. Chief Inspector McGuire at once notified the authorities of several cities of the arrest.

This is the police version of his escape.

Wallace, or "Hickox" was a trustee of the Gulf Refining Company at Pittsburgh up to the end of last year.

Then came his desire to partake of the life of the "bright lights and pretty girls." He, it is said, came to this city early in January, bought a draft for $50 and, according to the police, forged it to $4,500 on a bank for New Orleans and there called up the local agent of the refining company. He said he had deposited a $5,500 draft in a New Orleans bank and to have drawn out $2,500 from this account. Then he disappeared.

RAE TANZER TELLS OF HER LOVE

"I Loved Oliver Osborne to Desperation; He Promised to Make Me His Wife."

"My Soul Revolted Against Slavery"

Once Oliver Osborne took me down Fifth avenue and said, "You can have all the jewels and fine clothes you want, little girl, if you will only be my sweetheart. See those fine ladies rolling down the avenue in their automobiles. You can live like them if you will only be mine."

Had I sold myself for those things I could have enjoyed the favors of this man, perhaps up to the present. But my soul revolted against such slavery. I never could be happy.—From Rae Tanzer's own story.

"It Was Because I Spurned His Jewels That Disgrace Has Been Heaped Upon Me."

ceration. I became his sweetheart because he promised to marry me. If I had remained only an "affinity" I might still have enjoyed his favors.

SPURNED HIS JEWELS.

It was because I spurned his jewels and fine clothes and insisted upon becoming his wife that this disgrace has been heaped upon me.

When Oliver Osborne on October 17 of last year, I was strolling on a sidewalk of Central Park with gentleman friend who smiled pleasantly.

He was in his forties and the impression he made was that of a man of wealth and refinement. I turned long the path and sat down on a bench, for I was tired.

Then I noticed the follower of someone passing slowly by. I looked up and said it was the man that had smiled at me before. He exclaimed: "Why, you are the same little girl I met before."

I forgot my reply. I only know he fascinated me. He took the seat on the bench beside me and we fell to talking.

Finally he asked me: "Won't you go to the theatre this evening?" You can come before and get dressed and then meet me."

Why I should accept he became so insistent that I said yes.

At dinner he asked me to drink, but I scarcely touched it.

SAID HE WAS LONELY.

We then went to a show. He said he was lonely in New York and asked for companionship as if a girl like me. He saw me home, and made an appointment for the following day.

On October 18 it has been said, I went with Oliver Osborne to the Kensington Hotel at Plainfield, N. J. The hotel register has been produced to show that Oliver Osborne and I were there.

I do not deny this. I can only say that he told me that he would make me his wife.

At the belief that the man who called himself Oliver Osborne would marry me I gave myself to him. I see now that he only wanted me for a plaything.

Almost every day after that I was in his company.

He often took me down Fifth avenue and said: "You can have all the jewels and fine clothes you want, little girl, if you will only be my sweetheart. You will not have to work any more. See those fine ladies rolling down the avenue in their automobiles. You can live like them if you will only be mine."

Had I sold myself for these things I could have enjoyed the favors of this man, perhaps up to the present. But my soul revolted against such slavery. I never could be happy.

After he had pleaded with me on some particular occasion that I throw away my belief in marriage he deserted me.

CALLED HIM UP.

Throughout most of November I did not hear from him. Then one day he called me on the telephone and asked me to meet him, later he came up to the house, and I saw that his manner since saw him.

He separated with the understanding that he should meet me soon. But he dropped out of sight.

It was not until last Christmas that I saw him again for the last time. He promised to see me that evening, but he did not even call me up. I never saw him again.

It has been said that I could not believe that James W. Osborne was the son of Oliver Osborne of my romance because between October and Christmas I wrote letters addressed to James W. Osborne in which I called him Oliver and sent them to the New York A. C.

The explanation is simple. When Oliver first began to court me aside I made inquiries concerning him.

He was fond of athletics and intimated once that he was a frequent or semi-prominent athlete club. As I had met him twice in Fifty-ninth street, I thought perhaps he belonged to the New York Athletic Club, which is at Fifty-ninth street and Sixth avenue. One day I called there and asked if Oliver Osborne was a member. They said "No," but that James W. Osborne belonged to the club.

I asked who James W. Osborne was, and was told that he was a prominent lawyer with an office at No. 115 Broadway. I wrote a letter addressed to Oliver and mailed it to the New York Athletic Club. It was not long afterward that I happened to meet Oliver again, and accordingly I thought he must have received my letter and had come in response to it.

I believe that Oliver Osborne, who wrecked my life in a proud young New York man who cannot escape the search of the government authorities.

It may seem incredible to some that I continued in the delusion that this Oliver Osborne was James W. Osborne, even up to the date of the hearing before Commissioner Houghton, and after James W. Osborne had made public statements that he was not the man.

Those who condemn me do not understand the mental agony from which I was suffering all this time.

On the day of the hearing when I confronted James W. Osborne I was so steeled by the belief that I thought of nothing else. Public regard I did not study, but measures closely during the proceedings.

When I came before Commissioner Houghton he talked so gently that my terror abated. I seemed to come to my senses. It was at this moment that James W. Osborne made the said aloud before the astonished widow.

The light fell full upon his face. Then I realized for the first time my terrible error.

New Fight for Eills Girl

Mother Files Suit in Tokio

Hopes Japs Will Honor Bay State Decree.

MISS OLGA EILLS.

Mrs. Harriet Eills, formerly of this city, whose desperate efforts to get her seven-year-old daughter, Olga, out of the custody of her husband, John Eills, have led her clear to Japan, has appealed to the Japanese courts to help her again. She entered suit today.

Two weeks ago dispatches from Tokio related an unsuccessful effort by the mother to kidnap Olga from the house where Eills is having her boarded. She did succeed in getting the child to her side by offering her a little purse that Olga once owned, but police interference prevented the mother from carrying out her full plan. Olga was returned to the house and is still in her father's custody.

The Massachusetts courts awarded the custody of Olga to the mother in 1912. Eills fled with the child to Japan, where he was traced by Mrs. Eills. In October, 1913, Eills was arrested at Tokio at the request of the United States authorities, who asked that he be extradited on a perjury charge, but he was released on the ground that the case was not covered by any item in the extradition treaty between Japan and this country.

Mrs. Eills now says:

"I hope that the Japanese courts will finally honor the decree of the Massachusetts courts, which gave me custody of Olga. I have had the legal papers translated into Japanese. My lawyers ask to have the Massachusetts decree honored, and meanwhile to have a third person named as guardian for Olga, so we can both see her freely."

John Eills was formerly in the ministry, with a pastorate in Chicopee. He had his wife committed to an asylum for the insane, but she was released seventeen days later through the intervention of friends, who declared she had been committed without sufficient grounds. She was released as sane.

After the Massachusetts courts awarded Olga to the mother at Springfield and reaffirmed this decision at Boston, Eills fled with the child to the other side of the world, and up to the present has baffled his wife in her quest.

Miss Draper's Hat New 'Allies Sailor'

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Miss Margaret Draper, daughter of Mrs. William F. Draper, has introduced the "allies sailor" to Washington society. This unique hat is a large mushroom sailor, with the brim turned abruptly back in front against the crown. A tall white cockade against the dark blue straw of the sailor gives a decided military touch.

SMITH ATTACKS PAY-AS-GO PLAN

Former City Councillor Earnest E. Smith, in a letter today to members of the Boston City Council discussing Mayor Curley's request that the Legislature refer the famous "pay-as-you-go" bill to next year's general court, declares the Mayor has fallen" a victim to the advice" of Corporation Counsel John A. Sullivan.

After saying that the Mayor's criticism of the Finance Commission because of its adverse report on his plan to increase the city's tax rate $2 "is unworthy of him," the letter continues:

"The Mayor's praiseworthy efforts toward economy caused him to fall a victim to the advice of the corporation counsel ,the same advice which led the old Finance Commission to uphold the pay-in-advance policy, in spite of the constant protest raised by certain members of the City Council.

"The report of the commission just issued contains an everlasting, economic truth in section 7:

"7.—The argument that a saving in interest will be made through such legislation as is now proposed is fallacious, because the taxpayers individually will lose in interest more than the city saves; inasmuch as they cannot borrow as cheaply as the city.

"The above truth the Corporation Counsel has never grasped.

"For the citizen of any one year to pay-in-advance for permanent improvements when they could use the money in their own business to yield a higher rate of return than the city is obliged to pay in interest on its bonds, is not only unjust, but an economic waste. The United States did not build The Panama Canal on this plan; the state of Massachusetts does not improve Boston Harbor on this plan; the great railroads and industrial concerns do not construct their properties on this plan.

"I believe that before another Legislature has come in session, Mayor Curley will have dropped all idea of pushing this pay-in-advance policy."

NOONE OFFERS TO BUY THE B. & M.

Albert W. Noone says he would like to buy the Boston & Maine railroad and run it, without any State help. He'd do it or "bust."

Mr. Noone is the millionaire woolen manufacturer of Peterboro, N. H., self-made man, candidate for Governor of New Hampshire on the Democratic ticket last Fall and known for his energy and vigor.

He came to the Eagle Hotel at Concord to attend the conference of the Boston & Maine's trustees and representatives of the leased lines.

In the midst of discussion, according to dispatches today from Concord, the Peterboro millionaire rose and said:

"I'd like to buy the Boston & Maine and let Noone run it. If I can't run it I'll bust. I can negotiate with the leased lines, even if it is impossible for you to do so. I can run the railroad without State assistance."

Nobody offering reply, Mr. Noone sat down. Trustee Doherty began comment about "closed door" methods.

Bringing Sunshine to the Darkest Day

As a Rule, When a Man Starts Talking About His Sense of Duty It Is a Sign He Is Going to Be Unpleasant

THE AMERICAN'S MAGAZINE PAGE

Their Married Life

Helen Spends an Interesting Morning Around the Colon Curio Shops

(Copyright, 1912, by International News Service.)

It was so hot that little seeming blue heat waves kept dancing up and down before Helen's eyes. Helen was having rather a hard time getting used to the hot weather, as heat always tired her, and every move she made seemed to bring utter exhaustion in its wake.

That morning she had waked early with one of her headaches and had lain a long while watching the east streak with gold from her balcony window. Somehow it never seemed a bit cooler earlier in the morning than it did later on, at least she never seemed to feel any cooler, although Warren insisted that she imagined it, for it was always hotter in the middle of the day.

They had had breakfast in their room, and Warren had started out early for Panama City on business. Helen had not felt well enough to go, but somehow she felt better as the morning wore away and after she had fallen asleep again. The notion seized her suddenly to browse around in the shops all morning and then come home and have lunch in the glassed-in dining room. Winifred was asked and she would get the chambermaid to look out for her till she got back. It was the first time since they had struck the tropics that Helen had felt like exerting herself.

She took a cold shower and pulled fresh clothing out of her trunk. All the while she was dressing she sang little song happily to herself, and her cool white dress, with its black velvet sash and streamers, her little white hat and her short shoes all felt cool and almost comfortable. She went down the stone corridor and out to the glaring heat of the porch.

A carriage clattered up and she climbed in, and a moment later was driving down the quaint main street of Colon, which is the most fascinating part of the entire city. Not beautiful, and squalid beyond words in some part, dusty and hot, but different because of the old World foreign atmosphere.

Helen had a great desire to buy a Panama hat and one of the beautiful Japanese kimonos that she had heard were so cheap here. She ordered the driver to stop after she had reached the busy part of the town, and, paying him, began to stroll along slowly, looking at the shops as she passed.

There was nothing in the way of an American store for blocks. Once she passed an apology for a drug store, and finally a couple of stores with American goods in the windows. But the foreign shops, with fascinating pieces of every sort, from Japanese black wood, exquisitely carved ivory pieces and heavily embroidered kimonos, were crowded everywhere.

Almond-eyed Orientals looked at her curiously as she passed. There were no white people on the street, finally, nor to get out of the heat than anything else. Helen slipped into the cool darkness of one of the shops.

No one was there, and she walked around looking at it. Then for a few moments, then she stepped up to the counter and asked to look at kimonos.

"What color, madam?" said the soft-footed, yellow-skinned man who waited on her. He was not a Japanese, Helen thought he looked like a native of India, and was rewarded by a sudden lighting of his face when she asked him about it.

"Beauty, eh?" he remarked, as he opened a box and threw a pale gold kimono over the counter. It was a gorgeous thing of heavy crepe de chine, and embroidered in gold thread and ivory with a luminous pink running through the design. Helen could not help exclaiming. She was certain that no matter what else he should show her, there would be nothing else that she could want after seeing this heavenly thing.

Bob and Louise had bought her a very beautiful negligee in yellow when they had returned from their honeymoon, but Helen had spilled coffee on it at breakfast one morning and it had never been as pretty after it had come home from the cleaners.

"How much is this?" she asked doubtfully.

"Nineteen dollars, ma'am; cheap, very cheap."

Helen shook her head. "Too much; have you anything cheaper?"

"Not so good," said the man, pulling down several other boxes. And indeed they weren't, or at least Helen had no use for them. She decided to buy something for Louise, and then go out and look at Panama hats, and, after deciding on a very handsomely carved ivory umbrella handle, Helen was about to go, when the man held up the kimono invitingly. Another man, heavily bronzed, had come into the shop and was examining lapis lazuli. Now he looked up as he heard Helen tell the man that the thing was more than she could afford. Helen met his eyes as he smiled quizzically and flushed a little.

"Match the lady for it," he said, suggestively. "Come on now, be a sport."

The Oriental smiled, eager to snap at a bargain, but shook his head slowly. "Too much money," he said doubtfully. But the stranger was taking out coin out of his pocket and was tossing it invitingly.

"Fifteen dollars," he suggested, "if you lose; nineteen if you win."

The next moment at a roll of the Oriental's head the coin was spinning through the air and landed on the counter with a resonant clap.

"You lose," said the stranger laughingly, and the next minute the shop keeper was handing the package over the counter ruefully while Helen laughed at her bargain. "I'll take it," she said, and the stranger was turned to go. "You see, their instinct for gambling is strong and they hardly ever refuse to take a chance, and really one

"I want to thank you," said Helen a little breathlessly. "It was very good of you, and I appreciate it."

She walked up the block with a warm little glow at her heart. She would let the hat go for the present, and surely it must be nearly lunch time. She had never been so hungry in her life.

(Another incident in the travels of Helen and Warren will appear here soon.)

Whose Obituary?

J. D. Leckie tells an amusing story of editorial ingenuity. Some years ago the first three horses in the Lincoln Handicap were Rose Dawn, Swift and Roseate Dawn. A press agency in London wired the result to an Australian paper as follows: "Lincoln Oh Dean Swift Roseate Dawn."

The sub-editor who was in charge had never heard of the Lincoln Handicap, and for some time puzzled vainly over the mysterious message. Finally he came to the conclusion that "Oh" must stand for obit, the Latin word expressing a death notice. He accordingly turned out the following paragraph, which duly appeared in print:

"We deeply regret to announce the death at Lincoln of the celebrated Dean Swift, the author of that famous hymn, 'The Roseate Hues of Early Dawn.'"

It is not on record whether he was promoted for his smartness.

Hats the Parisienne Is Wearing

Republished by Special Arrangement with HARPER'S BAZAR, the Oldest and Greatest Woman's Magazine

TO top the Louis Philippe bodice Evelyne Varon makes a Directoire hat of blue horsehair, banded in very narrow rows of pink cyclamen ribbon, and adds a pink ostrich fantasie.

TO her close fitting toques of silk or straw Evelyne Varon gives the effect of breadth and height by adding at the back an immense bow of black faille ribbon with generous loops.

FOR the young girl Evelyne Varon shows this hat of navy blue picot straw, banded and bowed in faille ribbon of the same shade and worn jauntily at the right side, extinguishing the right eye.

They Took the Hint

You've seen them hanging up in dismal offices, haven't you? I mean those "Do It Now" signs.

Well, the newly promoted director of the firm of Sweatem & Co. thought it a great idea to hang several of these around his business quarters.

The consequent results exceeded all expectations, and yet they were not entirely satisfactory.

At the end of the week the first material result was arrived at. The cashier absconded with $25,000! Five clerks had asked for increases, and the head clerk had eloped with the typist.

(From Harper's Bazar for April.)

Evelyne Varon is the one milliner in Paris who has refused to show in her hats any influence of the militaire. She gives you her reason in this article, the first and only one she has ever written for a magazine. Also, she describes to you some of her Spring hats which have delighted all privileged to see them.

CHAPEAUX: Yes, hats, this year, as always, even for the Parisienne! She thought of them while still enveloped in her Winter wraps, as she sat with her knitting in the outroirs or flitted from ambulance to ambulance, or from one party to another, and now that Spring has come she revels in them. The Parisienne is as practical, as hard working, as devoted as any woman of any other nationality, but her solid virtues are always accompanied with the sparkle of coquetry. It is as imperative for her to be beautiful as it is to be kind-hearted. And this year, while she spent nearly all of her budget on refugees, or wounded or destitute sufferers, she could not deny herself the luxury of wearing becoming, if very simple, hats. When she knows she looks well, the Parisienne feels she can accomplish twice as much. And what did she not accomplish this Winter!

She dropped all luxury, all extravagance, yet at teas, at informal gatherings, on every occasion where people gathered, she managed to appear attractive. Her attractiveness consisted particularly in wearing becoming hats, as there was no opportunity—and she would not have cared for one—to display evening gowns and wraps.

And as a result of the millinery tendencies which I felt in the air, this Winter, I have, in so far as my establishment is concerned, crystallized Spring fashions in two genres, as it were—the small narrow toque with a jaunty trimming and the large flat picture hat. I have not taken up the military note at all. Not merely because such a decided fashion is apt to become commonplace very quickly, but principally because I consider that when the destinies of nations are being decided on the battlefield, when the very life of our country depends on our arms, the uniform becomes something almost sacred with which one ought not to play, if ever so lightly.

As inspiring and stirring as I find our national Alsacienne, she is ill suited I consider it to trivial occasions. To one she informs me, too noble to be a millinery inspiration.

If we are to seek inspiration for fashions this year, we must, I believe, seek them far from the battlefield, far from all association of war, or in a warlike period now far distant. As a sample I have created a few Directoire models, one of which is shown in the accompanying sketch. The hat is of Louis XV. blue horsehair, with an ostrich fantaisie rising straight in front. A few rows of very narrow pink cyclamen ribbon are tied in quite loose bows. Any other model on the same lines is entirely in tale.

It has pleased us very much in Paris to see that Americans, after having left the capital when the war broke out, began during the Winter to return in greater numbers, and that this number has increased steadily ever since.

Many of the American women in Paris at present are wonderful examples of the most perfect art of dress, and if the Parisienne has not so many other ideas in her head, she might be envious.

Like the Parisienne, the American woman has adopted for morning wear except for a very broad and flat one, curled ostrich feather that is threaded through the crown on the left side. Another of silk tulle in pastel blue has a small uncurled pastel blue ostrich held in place flatly by large white pansies on the left side, while on the right a similar feather is tacked down by a large yellow pansy.

Very youthful is the medium sized hat of dark blue picot straw with a large faille bow. That hat is placed frankly on the right side of the head. A new shape is the gray Louis XV. plateau with colored velvet conventionalized field flowers placed around the crown and under the brim, which rises almost perpendicular to the left. When seen from the right, the wearer's features are entirely hidden. The hat is dashing and becoming if worn by the right person.

A rather large flat shape, however, well built and suitably trimmed, is almost invariably becoming. And for morning wear, the toque with a ribbon bow is smart.

Women in Odd Roles

Their Ability Is Equal to Men, as They Have Proved

SLOWLY, but none the less surely, woman is proving herself the equal, both here and abroad, of man in various occupations. This is evident from the fact that women clerks are now being largely employed in the banks, while some time ago one was started in England staffed exclusively by women. Again, in stock exchange offices, insurance offices and commercial houses more women are being employed every day.

A novel profession for women, the utility of which is being recognized more and more every day by large business houses, is that which is known as the "welfare worker," who looks after the physical and moral welfare of women and girls in large businesses. Welfare workers are women whose taste, resourcefulness and organizing ability make them specially valuable in dealing with a large staff of women and girls. A university course of economics, a year's training at a settlement and a few months' business training are all the desirable preliminaries.

Among the more advanced posts which English women are admirably filling today, particularly in the scientific world, might be mentioned the appointments which have been given to two women in the National Museum of Science and Art, one in the Zoology Division and the other in the Botanical Division. These women are employed as assistants.

But distinguished positions gained by women are legion. Miss Marie Stopes, D.Sc., is the only established lecturer on palaeobotany; Miss Muriel Robertson is assistant to the Professor of Bacteriology at London University; Miss Alice Wernes holds the post of Professor of African Languages at King's College; Miss M. A. Czaplika, who holds a travelling Fellowship of Somerville College, has gone to Siberia under the auspices of the Oxford School of Anthropology to study the native tribes of the Yenesei Valley; while Miss Gertrude Leathlan Bell's studies of ancient inscriptions and architecture in Syria have won tributes from learned societies.

Referring to curious occupations chosen by women it is to be noted that there is at least one woman slaughterer, four women bricklayers and three grooms, while the only woman authorized to fly the recruiting officer's ribbons is Mrs. J. G. Patterson, Pinhoe, Horley, Surrey.

Here in America there is a woman Senator in Colorado and hundreds of women fill important posts all over the land, while in the New York city government a woman heads the Department of Corrections.

Humors of the Guest Book

THE custom of keeping books in hotels and boarding houses, and asking visitors to leave behind them some written record of their stay, has been productive of many witty effusions, the humor of which, however, could scarcely be appreciated in some cases by "mine host."

It was Quin, the actor, who, many years ago, wrote the following at the once-famed Pelican Inn, near Newbury (England):

The famous inn at Speenhamland,
That stands beneath the hill,
May well be called the Pelican,
From its enormous bill.

A hotelkeeper in the Argentine Republic proudly points to the following testimonial written by an English visitor:

"If you have no objection to garlic in your food, treacle in your wine, mosquitoes in your bedroom, and disturbance in your landlord; if you are content with a saucer for your bath, and if you like being hurled out of bed in the morning by an earthquake, I can, from experience, recommend this hotel."

Needless to say, the landlord could not read English.

At a pretentious suburban hotel, says Truth, one may read: "I have pleasure in testifying to the bon ton of this hotel. Every one dresses for dinner except the cook. The proprietors give the cook next to nothing to dress for dinner;" while at an old-established posting-house in Lincolnshire some ambiguous visitor entered this remark: "The food here is exceptional. I feel hungry every day."

A little more flattering is the following witty parody, written in another hotel book:

Seated one day at the junction,
I was hungry and ill at ease,
And my footsteps wandered lidly
In search of bread and cheese.
Here I found it at great satisfaction
And at very moderate cost,
But I wish the North-Western Railway
Would find the train they had lost.

Some clever punster wrote the following:

The bread, like the landlord, is crusty,
The cheese, like the charges, is high;
The knives and the bacon are rusty,
The beds, too, are hard, like the pie.
For attendance, why, you do the waiting
Complaints on that subject I'm mum;
And hunting abounds in the night time
And the quarry is "Hop o'er my thumb."

Facetiousness, too, is the keynote of this: "Upon my arrival at this hotel the landlord told me that his visitors almost invariably ate fat. It is quite true. No doubt it is cheaper than lean meat. Both my self and wife have enormous appetites at home, have been cured of galloping consumption—of food."

Some of the titles are models of conciseness and wit, as will be evident from the following:

"A home from home," their advertising boasts;
I find I reckon'd though, without my "host."

Oh, the old charge they made!
"Oooth the raven"——
Such a house I have never slept or dined in.
Good isn't the name for this dear hotel.

BEERING CASE NOW WITH COURT

The decision in the divorce suit of Dr. Frederick W. Beering, Jr., of Jamaica Plain, against Mary J. (Hennessy) Beering, it was announced by Judge Chase, would probably be handed down before the end of the week.

At the concluding session of the trial, Dr. Beering, called in rebuttal, denied testimony of witnesses for his wife. He contradicted the testimony of Lester Lamb, the boarder at Mrs. Beering's house, who had testified that he had told Lamb, the night of his personally conducted raid, that if Lamb would "jump out" he would make it worth while. He also denied that he had assaulted his wife with a breadknife in one hand, while he grabbed her by the throat with the other, as she had testified.

Lamb, the boarder, testified that he had gone to board with Mrs. Beering at the invitation of her sister, Miss Frances Hennessy. The night of the raid, he said, he and Mrs. Beering had been to the theatre. He had been in bed but a short time before he heard someone at the front door. He ran to the hall, shouting to Mrs. Beering that someone was trying to break in. While he was looking for a baseball bat, he said, detectives had kicked in the window and told him he was "covered." The argument of counsel followed.

Lee Wade Contest Judges Announced

The judges for the Lee Wade speaking prize contest at Harvard will be Professor Joseph H. Beale of the Law School, Edward H. Clegby, dramatic critic, and Otto Fleischner, assistant librarian in the Boston Public Library. The contest will be held tomorrow night in Sanders Theatre, Cambridge. There will be three prizes of $25, $15 and $10, and the following undergraduates will compete: H. A. Packard, A. J. R. Helmus, G. Mohr, H. Cohn, H. Epstein, O. O. Cohen, S. R. Pfeifer, N. W. Loud and G. P. Dennoyer.

Wilson Explains Tour of Colonel House

WASHINGTON, March 30.—There is a great deal of misapprehension as to what Colonel E. M. House was "up to" in Europe, President Wilson today told his callers. The Chief Executive said the Colonel merely was making a tour of inspection and intimated the reports of Colonel House's efforts for peace in Europe had missed the mark.

It's Up to You!

Which will you choose—Pebeco or "Acid-Mouth"? The quickest way to lose your teeth is to let "Acid-Mouth" have its way. The best and surest way to save them is to put Pebeco on the job and be sure to use it daily morning and night. Unlike ordinary dentifrices

Pebeco

Tooth Paste

has the valuable property of neutralizing "Acid-Mouth." Pebeco helps stop "Acid-Mouth"—the cause of 95% of all tooth decay. By helping to check "Acid-Mouth" Pebeco takes the biggest step forward in the scientific care of the teeth.

Pebeco does even more than help save teeth. It cleans, polishes and whitens teeth beautifully.

"I like the keen 'tingle' of Pebeco. To me this is a sign that Pebeco is a real dentifrice. It's a dentifrice that does things. I always did prefer performance to a promise."

CAPTAIN PERRY IS REINSTATED

Captain Robert R. Perry of the Somerville police department, who was retired against his will last June by Mayor Cliff and the Somerville Board of Aldermen, was today reinstated by order of Special Justice Michael Farrell of the Somerville police court.

Captain Perry, who is seventy-two years of age, fought hard for reinstatement. He also ran as a candidate for Mayor against Mayor Cliff, but was defeated.

Captain Perry secured Attorney Edwin P. Fitzgerald to aid him. A petition to the Supreme Court, filed by City Solicitor Kaan of Somerville, asking for a writ of prohibition restraining the Somerville police court from reviewing the case was defeated and the case went back for review, which Judge Farrell held last week.

After the decision of Judge Farrell was given out Captain Perry and his counsel appeared at the Somerville police headquarters and reported to Chief of Police Kendall. Chief Kendall told the captain that he had no orders to give him and would give him none until he had talked with Mayor Cliff.

Mayor Cliff stated that he would bow to the will of the courts, and that tomorrow morning he would define the orders for Captain Perry.

From police headquarters Captain Perry and his counsel went to the City Hall, visiting the office of City Treasurer Pike. Attorney Fitzgerald tendered a number of pension checks made out to Captain Perry and suggested that these be exchanged for a check calling for full pay from the date of the captain's removal.

The City Treasurer stated that he had no authority to comply with his request until proper vouchers signed by the chief of police, the City Auditor and the Mayor were given him.

Charles C. Perkins Dies of Pneumonia

Charles C. Perkins, for fifty years a civil engineer in the employ of the city of Boston, died today at his summer home at Danvers, in his seventy-fourth year. Death was due to pneumonia, following a severe cold. Mr. Perkins was a veteran of the Civil War and fought at Gettysburg, and was wounded in battle. In May, 1864, he entered Boston's employ, and a year ago was retired after a half century of service. He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. James N. Clark, of Salem.

Investigate Death of Man by Poison

Medical Examiner Pinkham of Essex county today ordered the Lynn police to investigate the death of Harold Shaffner, twenty-six, a former vaudeville actor who died in Lynn last night after telling the police he had taken strychnine. Shaffner had been suffering from heart trouble. He told the police a man had given him a strychnine tablet which he took. The authorities will make an attempt to find the man referred to in Shaffner's story.

Recipe for Bald Heads

Well-Known Politician Nearly Bald Now Has New Growth of Hair.

Tells How He Did It.

A western politician, well known on account of his baldness and his ready wit, surprised his friends (by appearing with a new growth of hair. Many of his friends did not know him, and others thought he had a wig. On being asked how he did it, he made the following statement: "I attribute the growth of my hair to the following simple recipe which any lady or gentleman can mix at home. To a half-pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 3 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the scalp two or three times a week with the finger tips. It not only promotes the growth of the hair, but removes dandruff, scalp humors and prevents the hair from falling out. It darkens streaked, faded, gray hair and makes the hair soft and glossy. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost and mixed at home."—Advertisement.

To Insure Hope Diamond Millions in McLean Gems

Mrs. Edward B. McLean and picture of famous Hope diamond, which is among jewels she is to have insured by Boston firm.

The famous McLean jewels, including the world renowned Hope diamond, are to be insured by a Boston insurance firm, according to dispatches from Washington.

The jewels, whose value runs into the millions, are owned by Mrs. Edward B. McLean, mother of Vinson McLean, the million dollar baby, whose care since he came into the world, has furnished the newspapers with columns on columns of stories.

The Hope diamond is the stellar piece in this almost priceless collection of stones. At the time of her marriage, Mrs. McLean defied fate by accepting this stone of tragedy, which for centuries has brought sorrow, suffering and death to those who owned it.

Among those who have owned or worn the stone are Louis XVI. of France and his queen, Marie Antoinette, both of whom died by the guillotine during the Revolution; the Princess Lamballe, who was torn limb from limb by the Revolutionists; Jean Hope, whose financial downfall followed his acquisition of the stone; a Russian prince, who loaned the stone to his actress mistress. The latter was shot on the stage and he was stabbed to death by anarchists two days later; Abdul Hamid, deposed Sultan of Turkey

JOBS FOR LEONARD AND FOR BRENNAN

Senator Leonard and former Senator Brennan today were slated for two clerkships in the City Penal Institutions Department, which pay $2,000 and $1,500 a year, respectively.

Leonard's appointment is said to be in return for political service rendered Mayor Curley on Beacon Hill this year. Brennan's being riveted on to the city payroll generally is conceded to be a shrewd play on the part of the Mayor to strengthen his political fences in the Charlestown district.

Following the removal of William A. Boudrot and Charles A. Whitney as clerks, speculation has been rife among the politicians as to who would be slated for their respectivs jobs. It is now known that Leonard and Brennan are scheduled for appointment.

FORD VERDICT IS READY FOR WALSH

The finding, "guilty on six counts," of the trial board which has been conducting court-martial proceedings against Lieutenant Fred W. Ford of Lynn on the charge of "conduct unbecoming to an officer," will be sent to Adjutant General Cole today and later to Governor Walsh, as commander-in-chief of the militia. The recommendation is dismissal from the service. It is reported that the banks involved and a bonding company will bring criminal action against Ford.

Lieutenant Ford, who was an officer of K Company of the Massachusetts naval militia, and his wife, have been missing since February 19. It is alleged he misappropriated about $1,200 of the company's funds. Orders for the arrest of Lieutenant Ford have been issued by Adjutant-General Cole.

The charges against Lieutenant Ford were that he juggled the company's accounts, forged the name of an associate officer to a check on a Lynn bank and appropriated money to his own use that had been advanced to him to pay a bill against the company. It is also alleged that he cashed checks against the company's account in a Lynn bank without authority.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's recipe to bring back color, thickness and lustre —Everybody is using it again.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully and removes dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.—Advertisement.

"On Saturday he broke down and wept like a child," said the impressario's wife. "His nerves are gone."

Correct Way to Treat Skin Diseases.

Boils are and water seem to have a bad effect upon skin diseases like Eczema, of which there are many forms. Keeping out the water and air is the first thing to do. By using Cadum, the well-known remedy for skin diseases, air and water are excluded, because Cadum contains petrolatum and white wax, and these form a light covering over the sore places upon the skin. Cadum also contains oil of cade, which has been successfully used scores years by the medical profession in the treatment of Eczema and other skin troubles. If your skin is inflamed, irritated or sore, get a 25c box of Cadum of your druggist and try it. The 25c size box contains nearly four times as much as the 10c size and is cheaper to buy.—Advertisement.

JOHNSON AND WILLARD END TRAINING FOR TITLE BATTLE

HAVANA, March 30.—Jack Johnson and Jess Willard have practically ended training for their forty-five round heavyweight championship battle here next Monday.

Each man put in strenuous conditioning work and at the end announced that nothing but light work would be indulged in until they crawl through the ropes.

The last workouts were strenuous enough to satisfy the army of spectators at the rival camps that the men were fit and able to go the full forty-five rounds should that be necessary, though that is a few to think the battle will go that distance.

The general opinion, as is reflected in the betting, is that Johnson will win, and that he will score a knockout before the twenty-fifth round has been reached.

There was a big crowd at Johnson's quarters when the giant colored man worked out. He took a long run on the road and wound up with a sprint of about half a mile as he neared his quarters at the stadium and showed little effect when he trotted into the rubbing room to be massaged by Sam Armstrong.

His wind is certainly good, although he is pounds heavier than he ever was within a week of an important battle.

The colored man figures that he will weigh 220 pounds on the day of the contest. He is ten pounds over this now, but in the week to come he can easily take that off. He will dry out the last twenty-four hours, and on former occasions this has always taken pounds off.

BOXED FIFTEEN ROUNDS.

Johnson boxed fifteen rounds, the working being divided into two sections. He showed the crowd everything he had in the boxing line and, while working hard enough to satisfy all hands, put a lot of comedy into his work, and his golden smile was at all times on tap.

Johnson shows not the slightest trace of being worried over the outcome of the contest, and has caused many of the Willard admirers to hesitate about backing their judgment through the confidence he shows.

Colin Bell, the Australian boxer, is one of Johnson's sparring partners, and his bouts with the colored man are the most interesting of the training work. The big fellow roughs it all over the ring and slugs away at each other with might and main. Johnson, of course, is more or less under a pull as far as looking for a vital spot is concerned, but Bell shoots both lefts and rights at his boss with deadly intent.

Johnson has, if anything, improved in his defensive work, and is no mitter how fast or hard Bell sends in a punch it is blocked if it looks dangerous and the counter made.

Special attention has been given by Johnson to his famous uppercut and the punch that beat Jim Jeffries five years ago at Reno, is in prime condition. The champion shoots it to the jaw in mixes with accuracy and as much force as he thinks safe.

JOHNSON IN GOOD SHAPE.

The real condition of Johnson is what fight fans all over the world want to know.

It can be said that he is in fine trim, far better shape than has been generally thought. But a few pounds of fat, he is in perfect condition.

This fat is so evenly distributed over that it causes him no inconvenience, and he is without the fatal fat about the stomach that spells "finish" to an athlete. The only thing that seems to be against Johnson is his age.

He is thirty-eight, which is a ripe old age for a pugilist to expect to put up his best fight at.

What ravages age has made on the champion can only be seen when the battle is on and he is put to the real test.

Willard has a great edge over Johnson in age, but neither his youth will outweigh the advantages which the colored man possesses in his knowledge of the pugilistic experts here.

Big Jess and his manager, Tom Jones, are very coy about letting the public know the real weight of the cowboy pugilist. Jones says he mark tips the beam at "about 245 pounds."

This doesn't seem possible, though, for although Willard is a skyscraper of a man he doesn't appear to carry enough flesh to total that figure.

He is in great shape. There can be no doubt about that, for he has been training for months for the coming fight, and is confident that all his hard work is to be rewarded with victory.

If hard, earnest work entitles a man to a pugilistic title, one should be dug up for the Westerner if he fails to win on next Monday.

Willard has as sparring partners Charley Hemphill, Tex O'Rourke, Frank Monohan and Jim Savage. His trainers are as hopeful as Jess regarding the outcome of the contest, and have worked just as hard and faithfully to get the big fellow in shape.

BOXED HARD ALL THE WAY.

Twenty rounds of boxing was Jess's stunt today, and he boxed as hard as he could through the full distance, taking his sparring mates on in turn.

As this was to be the last hard work, the Kansan went at it with a vim and at the end was in fine shape to enjoy the easy work ahead of him from now until the call to the ring.

Interest in the big battle is growing daily. The postponement of hostilities from Easter Sunday to Monday seems to have really helped the gate.

Many Cubans who would not have attended the contest on Easter Sunday have reserved seats for Monday, and the fact that a half holiday has been declared has also helped.

Simple Home Treatment to Remove Hairy Growths

(Beauty Culture)

Two or three minutes' use of a delatone paste will banish every bit of hair from your face, neck or arms. This paste is made by mixing some water with powdered delatone. After the paste is removed, the skin should be washed to free it from the remaining delatone and it will be clear and spotless. You will not be disappointed with this treatment if you are sure to obtain real delatone from your druggist.—Advertisement.

THE WEEK AT THE THEATRE

ONE-ACT DRAMA HIT AT KEITH'S

A young reform legislator gets caught in a "squeeze play" formed by grafting politicians in the one-act drama, "To Save One Girl," which heads the bill at Keith's Theatre this week. The action runs rapidly to the uprooting of a trap which clutches the young reformer and an innocent girl. There is a dramatic solution of the choice offered to the young hero to sacrifice his principles or the girl. Catherine Calvert plays the girl strongly and the reformer's part is well handled by Eugene Strong. There are eleven character parts to relieve the heavier ones.

Robert Emmet Keane and Muriel Window, from the "Passing Show of 1914" amuses the audience with song, dance and jokes. Miss Window's smile is infectious and her "Cheer Up" song is a jolly bit of optimism.

Robert Everest's monkey circus wins laughter and applause. El Rey Sisters open the bill with roller skating combined with the new dances, tango, one-step, fox trot and others, ending with a dizzy whirl.

Flanagan and Edwards literally open in bed, get up, give a lot of breezy chatter and finish strong with songs and a neat dance review. Frank Fogarty, the Dublin Minstrel, is back with his rare humor, also a catchy song, "Dublin Bay." He has the chorus on a scenic trip and a boy in a box to sing encores and the combination is another Fogarty hit.

Marion Littlefield & Co., the Florentine Singers, charm with favorites from grand opera. They win several encores. Lucile and Cocker make a novel act. Lucile is the owner of a trained cockatoo, which whistles every few minutes for another drink and imitates a cornet bravely.

Boston Theatre.

A return engagement of a film is rare, but "Tillie's Punctured Romance," which was shown a few weeks ago at the National, made such a hit that it has been brought downtown and installed in the Boston Theatre. Marie Dressler plays Tillie, and Charlie Chaplin, the funny man, is the city chap who wins her. It is a six-reel comedy, the biggest farce ever filmed, it is said, and there never is a minute when the audience is not convulsed. It is here for one week only.

Loew's Orpheum.

The headliner at the Orpheum yesterday was Alice Hanson, the comedienne whose songs were very popular. Other attractive features are the Stewart Sisters, Felgi Brothers, Jenkins and Covert, Kelso Brothers and others. Ann Wilson in "The Baron and His Friend" head the bill the last half of the week.

Exeter Street Theatre.

William H. Crane, in his greatest part, "David Harum," was shown yesterday at the Exeter Street Theatre, the latter part of the week. Winifred Kingston in "The Love Route," will be shown. E. J. Joslin, pianist, is featured.

Plays That Remain

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—Last week of Otis Skinner in "The Silent Voice."

SHUBERT THEATRE—"Kitty MacKay," Scottish comedy, in its second and last week.

COLONIAL THEATRE—"Typhoon," Bernard Shaw's greatest play, with Mrs. Pat Campbell in the leading part, continues to attract.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—"Tais is the last week of "The Lilac Domino," one of the most tuneful of comic operas.

WILBUR THEATRE—"A Pair of Sixes" began its fourteenth week most auspiciously last night.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE—"Common Clay," the hit of the year, continues its great run. Now in its twelfth week.

Waldron's Casino.

"The Girls of the Moulin Rouge," Joe Hurtig's big show, opened at the Casino yesterday afternoon. It is a very high class attraction, with a big chorus, good scenery and fine costumes. A special feature is a chorus number entitled the "Dance of the Inferno," with some novel light effects. Harry Woods is the leading comedian, and he is as funny as they make them. Harry Nelson, Primrose Seamon, and Big "Four London Girls" are prominent.

Howard Athenaeum.

The Follies of Pleasure Company, headed by Mona Raymond, styled the $10,000 beauty, is the attraction at the Howard. It was well appreciated last night. Honey Mellody, former welterweight champion, is giving a monologue which tickles the fancy. In the show are Jack McCabe, Clyde Estes, Tom McKenna, Sam Lewis and a lively chorus.

Marcus Loew's St. James.

William O'Clare and his Irish girls head a bright bill at the St. James Theatre. A hot feature is the Cabaret Trio, featuring Arthur Sione, the blind pianist. The Edwards Brothers, strong men; Bill Robinson, Dugan and Raymond, Bessie's Cockatoos and others are popular.

Park Theatre.

Fritzi Scheff in "Pretty Mrs. Smith" is the feature picture at the Park Theatre today. It is the first appearance of the prima donna on the screen, and though she cannot sing, her vivid personality is most effectively displayed. In addition are several excellent pictures and good musical numbers.

Scollay Square Olympia.

An all star bill holds the boards. Charles Chaplin in "A Jitney Elopement" is a side-splitting picture. McGee and Anita, singers and dancers; Lyons and Cullen, Shield and Rogers and other clever entertainers are on the bill.

Bowdoin Square.

The "Passion Play" is the feature this week at the Bowdoin. Billy Sunday in motion pictures and a vaudeville bill of the usual merit completes the bill.

'GYPSY MAIDS' AT THE GAIETY

Rhich Cooper's "Gypsy Maids" opened at the Gaiety last night before a big house for the season. Tom McRae, one of the most entertaining of comedy comedians, heads the cast. His fun is clean and bright and his character of Smoke is distinctly original.

In this offering Smoke is engaged in having adventures among the Gypsies, and he finds some extremely pretty Gypsy maids. The book is by James Cooper and Tom McRae. The lyrics are composed or assembled by Billy K. Wells and Otto Herman furnished most of the music. Belle Malette, who plays the Gypsy Queen, has sung in grand opera and is especially good in "The Bohemian Girl." She is a good looker as well as a singer. Fannie St. Clair, Jim Dixon, Jennie Ross, Ed. Reich, Al Bird and Lottie Blackford all have much to do.

Globe Theatre.

An unusually strong playlet entitled "One Flight Up" tops the show at the Globe Theatre. It is about a sporting man who is reformed by a nice girl. Amores and Mulsey in "It Happened in Paris," Fred Hildebrand, the tall humorist, and other good acts are appreciated.

Franklin Park Theatre.

"The Warrens of Virginia," one of the finest of film dramas, is the feature at the Franklin Park Theatre. There is a good vaudeville bill, which includes Faden, O'Brien Trio, Monroe, the magician; Gaudeau and Leary, Fred Wilson and others.

Tremont Temple.

The Pathe-Freres "Passion Play" is being shown this week. It consists of 5,000 feet of colored film, which was made in the Holy Land. A more wonderful picture has never been put on the screen. There is a fine musical program supplied by the Lotus and Filgrim quartets. E. Russell Sanborn is the organist and accompanist.

Shawmut Theatre.

There is distinction in the vaudeville and picture bills offered at the Shawmut. Zangwell's "Children of the Ghetto" with Wilton Lackaye is the feature picture. The first half of the week the theatre will feature Clara Kimball Young in "My Official Wife."

Modern Theatre.

Jane Miller in "From the Valley of the Missing," is the attraction at the Modern Theatre. It is taken from the novel by Grace Miller White. It is a five-reel picture and very thrilling. The usual high-class musical program is also offered.

LEOPOLD MORSE COMPANY TELL OF LABOR STRIFE

"The Leopold Morse Company is the innocent victim between two fighting factions," is the essence of a statement given out by Leon Strauss of the company, in regard to the strike of the garment workers employed in its downtown factory. He also asserted that the strike was brought on by certain leaders of the Amalgamated Garment Workers' Union, which is affiliated with the I. W. W., against the American Federation of Labor workmen, which are employed by this concern, and which have been under agreement with the Leopold Morse Company for twelve years.

"The Leopold Morse Company pay the highest wages and give the shortest hours, and allow its people to work under more ideal conditions than any other shop in America," declared Mr. Strauss. "Our shops are held as a model as the finest clothing shops in America. Samuel Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor, in an interview in New York, indorses the stand that the Morse Company has taken in this strike. This company is in its sixty-third year, and for the last twelve years has indorsed the American Federation of Labor, which stands for all that is good and beneficial in unionism.

"The entire resources of the Leopold Morse Company are behind the American Federation of Labor in this fight, and our faithful working people, although threatened with personal violence, are remaining loyal to us. It is a pity that in this age a man cannot come to work because he has been written to and told that if he does go to work he will be killed. This has happened to several of our employes. We have letters from them telling us that they would be glad to work, only that they have received letters which state that if they do they will be killed.

"This strike is not a question of wages, hours or working conditions, but merely leaders who are known throughout the country to be conniving and grasping, and working for their own self-interest, that have brought this situation about. The Leopold Morse Company are determined to fight to the bitter end, no matter what the cost, and the firm intends to see it through.

"We have already had offers from other cities for men to go to work, but we feel that the situation will quickly clear up, and that our first allegiance is to Boston. But if this situation does not clear up speedily we will fill our shops from other cities and protect the workers adequately, and house them all and take all necessary care of them.

"This whole trouble started about a year ago, when certain members of the A. F. of L. Garment Workers' Union wanted to take things into their own hands and seceded from the union. Since that time they have been fighting the better organization and we are the innocent victims."

Rheumatism Advice

Here is a prescription for rheumatism used all over the U. S. for many years and said to be the surest known remedy: "One ounce of Toris compound and one ounce syrup of Sarsaparilla. Put these two ingredients in half pint of whiskey. Use a tablespoonful before each meal until all is gone. The sarsaparilla in the whiskey and let stand for two hours before adding the Toris. Toris is better to buy at home, ready to the druggists at any drug store. Compound Toris comes in tablet form by package. Advertisement.

Corns and Callouses

Don't endure foot agony. Here is guickest relief: Apply a few drops of Calcidin compound in warm foot bath. This gives instant relief; corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It is starvation for food or starvation for love that faces the little one, but she must starve!

The mother, accustomed to good things while her husband brought the pay envelope of a Saturday, now has nothing—nothing, and is forced to ask help of the state.

Massachusetts has provided properly for such mothers and children, but in New York and some other states to get the state's bounty, the child must be put away in that cold, uninviting asylum, without the guiding, helpful, needed mother love.

In place of the dear hands, paid, hurrying attendants are the constant companions of the babe.

Must the mother set aside her own greatest joy and pluck out love from the child's life, in order to give it food?

MANAGER STALLINGS MAPS OUT STIFF SCHEDULE FOR BRAVES' HOMEWARD TRIP

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTING NEWS

BILL CARRIGAN GOES OVER SEASON'S PLANS AT SECRET MEETING WITH HIS PLAYERS

CARRIGAN CALLS MEETING OF SOX

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

HOT SPRINGS, March 30.—Manager Carrigan, of the Red Sox, called the regular players into conference this morning. The meeting was for the purpose of talking things over, and the Providence players were not admitted to the room in the Majestic Hotel where the Red Sox players gathered. It was the first full meeting of the year, Hooper having just arrived to complete the squad.

Hooper took part in the short game played yesterday and seemed in as good shape as he ever was.

The real old hot stuff in the way of weather has not yet arrived. The players all hoped for it this week, but Monday started off cloudy and windy, and while the boys were playing a game the rain came down and put everything on the fritz.

Red Sox Team Never in Better Condition.

However, there was never a Boston American League team in better condition than the Red Sox are right now, and if nothing interferes they will enter the American League ready to go the full distance, and it might just as well be said right now, that the team that bests them in the fight for the pennant will have to travel at a mighty fast pace.

Carrigan is trying all the combinations in practice. He began two weeks ago by giving his pitchers practice in handling bunts and covering first. Then he had his outfielders throw to the plate trying to stop scorers from second.

Yesterday he had the infield working on a new combination. With men on first and second and no one out the ball was bunted and fielded. Gardner or the pitcher that was working would handle the ball and try to choke off a runner at third or make a play at second or at first. If the other two runners could not be caught.

St. Paul Club Wants McNally Back Again.

Mike Finn, who formerly made his headquarters at South Lynn, Mass., and is now one of the best known baseball men in the country, has arrived here for the purpose of looking over the Red Sox recruits. He is scouting for the Saints team this season, but executes other commissions as well. For example, his old friend Mike Kelly, manager of the St. Paul team, would like to get Mike McNally, the Red Sox recruit shortstop, back on his team.

McNally was farmed out to St. Paul by the Red Sox last season and made a great hit in the American Association. Kelly would like to have him back and he asked Finn to feel out the Boston club on the subject. There was nothing doing for Mr. Finn, however.

The Red Sox will keep McNally, for the present at any rate. If any deals will pan will probably be the Grays of Providence. Finn also made Freddie Parent an offer to join the St. Paul club, but the player refused.

Braves in Clash with Macon Champions Hitting Hot Pace

By JACK CONWAY.

MACON, March 30.—The Braves have not beaten anybody in particular since Saturday, when they disposed of the Atlanta Club, and as a result Boss Stallings arranged a game with the Macon club for today. He is anxious that his band continue their winning habit and intends to keep them busy until the National League campaign gets under way.

We do not hesitate in stating that the noble Macon team will receive a setback from the Champions. The local outfit has been playing good baseball, but it is not in the same class with Johnny Evers and his co-workers.

HAVE WON ELEVEN GAMES IN SOUTH.

Few big league clubs have ever started off so early in the season at as fast a pace as the Braves have set since they arrived here. The Champions commenced hostilities where they left off last Fall, and have been playing slashing baseball.

The Braves have played eleven exhibition tussles so far and have won every one of them. Stallings' men have not loafed in any of these contests and have gone after everything in sight.

Johnny Evers has kept the players going at top speed while they have been on the field. Johnny is too much of a fighter to enjoy being defeated by a minor league or college team. He has instilled this spirit into the other members of the team and it looks good to see the boys playing it too hard in the exhibition skirmishes. We do not wish to infer that the Braves take wild, reckless chances on the bases and in the field in order to score a run. They play things safe, but they are always trying to beat the other fellow by as big a score as possible.

Remaining Schedule of Games in South.

Fred Mitchell, who is acting as secretary of the club in the absence of Hermann Nickerson, who is attending to Mr. Gaffney's business affairs in Boston, today announced the schedule for the rest of the trip. Here is a list of the games which the Braves will play and the hotels at which they will stop while en route to Boston:

March 31 and April 1—Cleveland Association team at Macon.
April 2—Open.
April 3—Atlanta at Atlanta, Piedmont Hotel.
April 4 and 5—Open in Atlanta.
April 6—Greenboro at Greenboro, N. C., McAdoo Hotel.
April 7—Durham at Durham, N. C., Lochmoor Hotel.
April 8—Richmond at Richmond, Va., Murphy's Hotel.
April 9 and 10—Washington at Washington, D. C.
April 11—Bridgeport at Bridgeport, Ct., Atlantic Hotel.

The team will then engage in exhibition games with Harvard and Brown in Boston.

Warm Weather Allows Pitchers to Let Out.

Boss Stallings will keep his men traveling at a merry clip during the rest of their stay here. The weather during the past few days has been very warm and this has enabled the players to loosen up their muscles.

The balmy weather has been particularly pleasing to the pitchers who have been obliged to take things easy on account of the cold wave which has been sweeping across the entire South. It would be foolish for a hurler to risk putting himself out of commission for the greater part of the season by trying to use much speed or put any "stuff" on the ball on a cool, raw day.

This is the reason why Stallings has not allowed Rudolph, James, Tyler and his other pitchers to exert themselves on cold days. If they did so, they would get heated and when they returned to the bench between innings they would naturally cool off. They might then get a cold in their pitching arm, which would cause considerable worry for the "Miracle Man" and Fred Mitchell, who has charge of the battery men.

Show Great Spirit in Hardest Workout

The Braves received their hardest workout of the year yesterday. They were out at the ball park in the morning and afternoon and were kept busy all of the time. It was not necessary for Stallings to force his men, as they all seem to be bubbling over with well-known "pep" and raced around the field like two-year-olds.

There is wonderful team spirit with the Braves. The boys are out to grab off another pennant and world's championship and are anxious to get themselves into the best possible condition.

The players engaged in batting and fielding practice in the morning, while they had an even more strenuous workout in the afternoon. Stallings started off with batting practice. He lined up his regulars and had the various pitchers take turns in shooting the ball across the plate. The "Big Chief" was on the job all of the time and called the pitchers' and batters' attention to any errors which they were making.

Each Outfielder Is Coached Individually

Stallings later had his outfielders take their positions and instructed a couple of fungo hitters how to bat flies to them. Stallings himself went out into the outfield and coached each fielder individually. He is anxious that they play their positions perfectly so that they may be able to get every possible ball which is hit in their direction and also throw the sphere to the plate with the least loss of time.

Boxer Killed in Ring.

STEUBENVILLE, O., March 30.—"Special Delivery" Tully was killed in the first round of his boxing bout with Banty Sharp here.

BROWNS ANGLING FOR 2 WHITE SOX

ST. LOUIS, March 30.—Manager Huggins of the Cardinals has virtually decided to play Art Butler at second base.

Manager Rickey of the Browns said today that he is still angling to get Fournier or Brief from the White Sox, and that the deal is by no means off.

Leo Dressen, the first baseman recruit of the Cards, left today to join Mike Kelly's St. Paul team.

* * *

WASHINGTON SENATORS.

RICHMOND, Va., March 30.—Darkness stopped the game here between the Washington Americans and the Richmond Internationals at the end of the eleventh inning with the score 3 to 2.

* * *

PHILADELPHIA PHILLIES.

ATLANTA, March 30.—The Phillies defeated the local Crackers, 7 to 2. Moran's squad started practice at 11.30 in the morning, and kept it up until after the game, excepting for lunch, which was eaten on the benches.

* * *

NEW YORK YANKEES.

DAYTONA, Fla., March 26.—The Yankees, in defeating Brooklyn, 5 to 2, proved that Savannah reports of New York perfection as a fielding machine were not empty chatter. Donovan's men played alright ball throughout. Brooklyn got only three hits.

* * *

PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 26.—The Athletics, with their scoring machine working perfectly, defeated the Jacksonville team, 15 to 2. They slammed everything the Jacksonville pitchers put over the plate, and ran wild on the bases. Emory Tilman, 400-pound mascot, batting for Larry Lajoie, made a single and stole second, third and home.

* * *

NEW YORK GIANTS.

CORSICANA, Tex., March 26.—The Giants have made fifty runs in the last three days. McGraw has decided on the Giants' line-up. Snodgrass and Thorpe are regulars. Murray is the best fielder, but weak batting disqualifies him.

* * *

CINCINNATI REDS.

MOBILE, Ala., March 30.—Mobile defeated the Cincinnati Nationals, 5 to 4. Benton was effective for six innings, but Dale was hit hard in the seventh, when Mobile scored four runs.

* * *

DETROIT TIGERS.

GULFPORT, Miss. March 30.—The Tigers started North today. The best balanced team since he has managed the Tigers, says Jennings, who sees pennant visions. The squad divides for the trip North, joining again in Louisville Saturday. Dubuc, Dauss, Reynolds and Oldham, pitchers, are staying behind for more extended training.

For Travellers or Stay-at-Homes

Such Real Good Whisky It Is on Sale by Dealers Generally All Over New England

"The Rabbit's" Column By Walter J. Maranville SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

MACON, Ga., March 30.—Those baseball experts and "fans" who do not believe that we will be well fortified with utility infielders this year should see Ted Cather and Eddie Fitzpatrick perform here in the South. Cather is not entirely new to the infield, as he did the honors in the infield on numerous occasions when he was playing minor league baseball and later with the St. Louis Cardinals. But when Cather reported to the Braves last Summer, Stallings decided to play him in the outfield. The former Cardinal player was kept busy alternating in left field with Joe Connolly and chasing flies in the right garden when occasion required. It is baseball history how Cather made good with a bang and proved one of the most valuable players on the club. Cather and George Whitted, who was traded to the Phillies in the Magee deal, also brought good fortune to the Braves, for the club started its famous winning streak shortly after these men were placed on James E. Gaffney's payroll.

* * *

Cather will act as understudy for "Hef" Smith and myself. Baseball is a game in which the "breaks" play a very prominent part and there is not any telling when either Smith or myself will be forced out of the game for one reason or other. Smith has taken things easy this Spring on account of his injured leg. He has not taken any unnecessary chances in the field or on the bases. "Hef," however, is in good condition and should be there with bells on when the National League teams get away in the 1915 pennant race next month.

* * *

Cather has received an opportunity to play third base in some of the exhibition games in the South. All of the baseball diamonds in this section of the country are not perfect. Many of them are very hard, especially at this time of the year. Consequently it is an easy matter for a player to break one of his legs unless he exercises great care in his playing. Stallings has refused to allow Smith to play on any poor diamonds and whenever we have encountered such a ball field Cather has always donned the spangles and performed at third base.

* * *

The Braves could not very well afford to be without the services of Smith. He is an aggressive, earnest ball player and is always working for the interests of his club. "Hef" is a steady fielder, but it is as a batter that the southern youth has won national fame. There are few men who enjoy taking a lusty wallop at the ball any more than Smith. He does not like to get a base on balls and always delights in driving a safety to the outfield. I do not wish to infer that Smith will aim at bad balls, for such is not the case. "Hef," however, is much more contented when he is able to swing at the sphere than he is when obliged to watch bad balls go by.

* * *

Smith played great baseball for the Braves last season. He did not perform up to his standard during the closing days of his career with Brooklyn. He was dissatisfied with the treatment which he had received while with the Dodgers, and it is impossible for a ball player to do his best work when he is not contented with his berth.

* * *

I am sure that Eddie Fitzpatrick's work will make a big hit with New England's baseball lovers. He is a finished ball player and is always working for the interests of his club. Fitz is the kind of ball player who likes to be playing each day. His heart is in his playing all of the time. He will be a tremendous asset to the Braves if Johnny Evers is forced out of the game at any time during the season.

* * *

In speaking about our utility infielders, it would be well not to overlook Otto Hess. He is a the young man who will probably take Schmidt's place in the lineup if anything should happen to the slugging youth from Baltimore. Otto is well along in years as baseball experience, but is as young in spirit as any member of the team. He takes excellent care of himself and this has enabled him to laugh at old Father Time.

As a number of fans claim they did not read my selections in the AMERICAN, I am reprinting them here:

American Team—McInnes 1b., Collins 2b., Baker 3b., Barry ss., Milan l. f., Speaker c. f., Cobb r. f., Leonard, Johnson, Caldwell p., Schalk, Stanage c.

National Selection—Saier, Chicago, 1b.; Evers, Boston, 2b.; Maranville, Boston, ss.; Smith, Boston, 3b.; Burns, New York, r. f.; Carey, Pittsburg, c. f.; Magee, Boston, l. f.; James and Rudolph, Boston, and Donk, St. Louis, pitchers; Gowdy, Boston, and Archer, Chicago, catchers.

Miss Hurley, the winner in the American list, selected all the correct names except Stanage, while Mr. Donohue, was only one out of the way. Several were tied with both winners but the receiving time decided both cases.

Marathon Men Quite Sure of Assistance

It is almost certain that competitors in the B. A. A. Marathon race on Patriots' Day will be allowed refreshments and, an ale, as entry blanks for the Unicorn run were in the hands of the intending contestants before the A. A. U. made its new rule, which prohibits nourishment and attention in all Marathons under its sanction. Joseph Christian of Lowell and Patrick Hynes of the Young Men's Club of Southboro are the latest entrants in the B. A. A. event.

Frankie Hanlon Beaten.

GLOUCESTER, March 30.—Joe Tvanni, of Troy, was awarded the decision over Joe Rivers of this city in a slashing twelve-round bout at the Lenox Club. Frankie Hanlon of South Boston was beaten by Batting Peters in the semi-final.

B. A. A.-ARENA IN CLASH FOR TITLE

HOW THE TEAMS LINE-UP.

B. A. A.		ARENA H. C.
Jones, Hopkins	l.w.	Sennott, Reed
Hicks, Burns	c.	Cooper, Conlin
Cleveland, Osgood	r.	Sennott, Sennott
Burns	c.	Bleich, Dunning
Houghton	cp.	Smith, Sexton
Robbins, E.	r.	Garvin, Kilroy
Chadwick	g.	Small, Silvey

The deciding game of the series between the B. A. A. and the Arena for the hockey championship of the city will be played tonight at the Arena, and with it will go the last play of the season of 1914-15.

Each team has won three games, and the winner of this evening's contest will not only annex local honors, but will have a claim on the national club championship.

There is such widespread interest in the match that Manager Lougee is planning to accommodate even larger crowds than those which saw Hobe Baker play. The rivalry between the two teams is intense.

The condition of both teams is excellent, except in the case of Captain Freddie Huntington, the Unicorn cover, who is still suffering from the result of his collision with Red Sennott in the last game. Huntington says he will start the game tonight, and if there is any possibility of his playing it is certain that this game and popular player will be right on the job for the Unicorn.

The work of Patsey Sequin, captain of the Arena team, has been so sensational in the B. A. A. series, and also in other matches, that many fans have rated him with Hobey Baker as a forward. Of the thirty-one goals scored by the Arena in the six B. A. A. matches, the little Arena leader has shot sixteen.

Harvard Athlete Dead.

SOUTHBORO, March 30.—Giraud Foster de Rham, eighteen years old, a member of this year's Harvard freshman hockey team, is dead at St Mark's School here, having been taken ill of typhoid fever while visiting the school two weeks ago. His home was in New York. Services will be today in Christ Church, New York.

SCHOLASTIC SPLUTTERS BY DOC.

During a practice game on Hunnewell Field, Joe Curry, of the Wellesley High squad, who is sure to appear in the mound this season, showed great speed, when he burned them over to the batters. Everyone present acquainted with Joe's work of last year, was elated at the form he is showing so early in the season. The coaches predict a big season for Curry.

* * *

It also looks like a banner season for Ed Connors of South Boston High, who showed so well in a practice game with the South Boston A. A. recently. Few batters could touch him. Connors was one of the best schoolboy pitchers last season and when the South Boston boys line up for their first real game Connors will be seen on the mound.

La Salle High School of Waltham will be represented in baseball the coming season by a strong team, under the leadership of Arthur O'Brien. The following schedule has been made up by Manager Lanigan:

April 14, Weston High at Weston; April 17, Stoneham High; April 21, Watertown High at Watertown; April 22, West Roxbury High at La Salle; April 24, Boston College High at Boston; May 3, Marlboro; May 8, Allston; May 12, Concord at Concord; May 15, Charlestown; May 19, Boston College Freshmen; May 22, West Roxbury High at West Roxbury; May 26, open; May 28, Natick at Natick; May 29, Lexington at Lexington; June 2, Arlington at Arlington; June 4, South Boston; June 9, open; June 12, open; June 17, Winchester, pending.

* * *

Another schoolboy who will be missed on the diamond this year is Foster Cousens of Boston Latin. This athlete will have to resign as captain of the team because of his being down to studies. The Purple nine will surely miss the playing of Cousens, as he is one of the best ball players in scholastic circles.

* * *

Hindge Tech is at present without a catcher, but Coach Linehan has his eye on one or two of the candidates who might make good in this position. "Tubby" White, who was a sensational football player last season, was tried at backstop recently and showed up mighty good. With more of Coach Linehan's advice White should be able to don the mask for Hindge this season.

* * *

Coach Nash of Milton High has only two veterans trying for this season's nine. Captain Reiser, a former Boston Latin pitcher, and Welch, the shortstop, are the only "old" men on the squad. Milton was recently admitted to the new South Shore Interscholastic League. The schedule for the coming season is as follows:

April 14, Milton High at Wollaston; April 19, Wentworth High at Milton; April 29, Braintree High at Milton; May 5, Milton Academy at Milton; May 11, Rockland High at Milton (South Shore League); May 18, Braintree High at Braintree (South Shore League); May 22, Milton High at Quincy (South Shore League); May 25, Quincy High at Milton (South Shore League); May 29, Milton High at Rockland (South Shore League); June 1, Wentworth High at Wentworth (South Shore League); June 15, Braintree High at Milton (South Shore League).

BIG SQUAD OUT FOR MECHANICS

Coach Joe Dunn of Mechanic Arts has plenty of material on hand from which to select his nine for the coming season. Captain Harold Connor will begin today to help Dunn develop some of the classy youngsters who have reported for practice.

* * *

English High will again have the services of Harold Brigham, the star all-around athlete who has featured in many of the Blue and Blue games this year. Coach Dan O'Flaherty expressed himself as satisfied with the present outlook for a fast baseball team, and will soon name the boys who are to represent English on the diamond.

* * *

The schedule for the Charlestown Centre High baseball team has been completed by Manager Joseph F. Curran and is as follows:

April 14, Belmont High at Belmont; April 17, Brighton High at Brighton; April 19, Arlington High at Arlington; April 22, Medford High at Medford; April 24, Boston College (B) at Charlestown; April 28, Boston College (A) at Charlestown; April 30, Newton High at Newton; May 1, Norwood High at Norwood; May 4, South English High at Lynn; May 6, Wentworth High at Wentworth; May 8, open; May 10, Lasell High at Watham; May 11, Malden High at Charlestown; May 22, Concord High at Concord; May 25, Hyde Park High at Hyde Park; May 27, Roxbury High at Roxbury; May 29, Rockport High at Rockport; June 1, Winthrop High at Winthrop; June 12, Woburn High at Woburn.

* * *

Captain Daniel J. Costello of St. John's Prep School has issued the following schedule for the coming season.

April 17, West Roxbury; 19, Chelsea High; 23, Melrose High; 24, South Boston High; 28, Dramatic Academy; 30, Wentworth Institute; May 3, Haverhill High at Haverhill; 5, Boston College High; 7, Lowell Textile at Lowell; 10, Chelsea High; 12, Boston Chamber of Commerce; 26, Salem High; 29, Lowell High; 31, Boston College High at Boston College; June 5, English High; 9, Haverhill High; 12, Boston College High; 15, Malden High; 17, Alumni Field Day.

Marvin Hart Plans Return to the Ring

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 30.—Ten years after he won a twenty-round bout from Jack Johnson, Marvin Hart, heavyweight pugilist of Louisville, today announced his intention to return to the prize ring. March 28, 1905, he was awarded the decision over Johnson at San Francisco. Hart's last fight was in 1911, when he was knocked out by Carl Morris in three rounds at Sapulpa, Okla. Since his retirement, Hart, who is thirty-eight, has been serving as a deputy sheriff.

Sound Death Knell for Nevada Boxing

CARSON CITY, Nev., March 30.—By vetoing the bill permitting twenty-round boxing contests, passed at a recent session of the State Legislature, Governor Boyle put an end to all licensed prize fighting in Nevada, having already signed the general revenue bill which repealed the law under which ten-round prize fights have been held during the past two years.

Two Boston Boxers on the Losing End

WOONSOCKET, R. I., March 30.—Boston boxers were on the losing end in the bouts held at the Millville A. C. Johnny Coes of Boston was knocked out in the fourth round of his bout with Jack Donnelly of Providence. Young Clancy of Boston took an eight-round decision to Tommy Hanna of Providence, and Young Cooper of Providence boxed eight fast rounds to a draw with Teddy Crowley, the 105-pound boxer of Boston.

Five Wrestlers Out for Harvard Title

The wrestling championship of Harvard will be decided in Hemenway Gymnasium today. Five men will grapple for the honor. They are: T. Wagner, '18; A. P. Little, '16; A. A. Shapiro, '15; R. S. Shillady, '18, and L. H. Reveler, '17.

A Pugilistic Bradstreet

Mike Gibbons Keeps It and He Tells How and Why

The Secret of His Success

IN a remarkable series of stories on his style of fighting, his methods in the ring, his training, his weighing, his systematic compilation of his opponents' merits and demerits, how he beat 'em, what he thinks of all the other middleweights, Mike Gibbons, regarded generally as the real boxing marvel of the age, will tell Boston AMERICAN readers some of the most interesting facts ever put before fight fans.

This is actually Mike's own story—not a history of his career, and not a dry discussion of the boxing situation—and is intensely interesting because it is something never before attempted by a boxer—an expose of inside stuff that tells "Why I Am a Success," and the real reasons for his being called "The Phantom."

The series will begin Thursday. Don't fail to get the first installment.

PLAN NEW LEAGUE IN CONNECTICUT

NEW YORK, March 30.—At a meeting of several ambitious minor leaguers in this city an effort was made to form a new class D league, which will include four Connecticut cities, Danbury, Waterbury, Stamford and South Norwalk, and Kingston and Poughkeepsie.

If the deal goes through, and the Eastern Association decides not to open the season, New Haven and Bridgeport will be asked to join the new circuit. It will be called the Connecticut League.

Sports of All Sorts

PHILADELPHIA, March 30. — Charley White, Chicago's aspirant for lightweight championship honors, handed Charley (Kid) Thomas, the local battler, a severe trimming in six rounds at the Olympia.

Davis defeated Cushman, 200 to 131, in the twentieth game of the class A-E billiard tournament at Littlefield's. Davis also made the highest run of the tournament, thirty points. Tonight Cushman will meet McCarthy.

* * *

NEW HAVEN, March 30.—Murray S. Chinn of Philadelphia has been elected captain of the Yale gymnasium team.

* * *

CHICAGO, March 30.—George Moore of New York defeated John Daly of New York, 50 to 47, in the first game to decide the triple tie for first place in the world's championship three-cushion billiard tournament.

* * *

PHILADELPHIA, March 30.—Dartmouth has sent in entries for the Pennsylvania relay races. These include a team for the two-mile relay championship of America and entries for all the special events.

* * *

SYRACUSE, March 30.—It is reported that Coach Dwyer of Syracuse High School has signed a contract for $1,400 to coach the Malden, Mass., High school athletic teams, beginning in September next.

ST. LOUIS, March 30. — The Cardinals will play all their games at the American League park.

Harvard Issues Urgent Call for Football Squad

Head Coach Haughton, Captain Eddie Mahan and Manager Blanchard of the Harvard football team have issued an urgent call for more candidates. The powers-that-be in Crimson football were greatly taken back by the small number of men out for the first Spring practice, a little more than twenty-five reporting. Because of this poor showing Captain Mahan made a statement to the student body, in which he said, in part:

"At the first practice of Spring football, scarcely enough men for two teams appeared on the field. This is a deplorable state of affairs, since this year of all years the prospects for a championship team are very dull.

"Football is a race against time. Princeton and Yale are far ahead of us, since both have held Winter practice and made plans for a long Spring drill. Harvard's practice lasts exactly eighteen days. If we wish to be in the race next Fall we must start immediately, as championships are only won by the hardest kind of work. Thus it is imperative that more candidates report for Spring practice."

Wells Knocked Out by Moran in London Ring

LONDON, March 30.—Frank Moran, American heavyweight, knocked out the English champion, Bombardier Wells, in the tenth round, before 4,500 spectators, in the London Opera House tonight. Moran sent a right to Wells' jaw and the English champion fell flat on his face.

The crowd, which had watched Wells' clever boxing enthusiastically, seemed stunned; then cheers burst forth, and Wells' seconds lifted the prostrate fighter and carried him over the ropes.

In the first round Moran outfought and outgeneraled the Englishman, but in the second Wells seemed to regain his nerve, and from then until the knockout fought a cleaner and more scientific battle, although Moran's blows seemed to do the greater damage.

COSTIVE BOWELS, HEADACHE, COLDS TAKE CASCARETS

No Headache, Sour Stomach, Bad Cold or Constipation by morning.

Get a 10-cent box now. Furred Tongue, Bad Colds, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will have you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.—Advertisement.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were irregular at the start but in early trading more issues showed gains than losses. Trading was active in both New York and Boston. Price gains averaged small at the start in both markets.

Bethlehem Steel continued to ascend. It sold up to 91½ within a few minutes but soon reacted below 90. General Motors sold at 126. Rock Island made a good gain. Maxwell Motor common rose 4½ to 42¾. Willys Overland gained 4½ to 125, and Studebaker 4½ to 57⅝, while National Lead rose 3⅞ to 63½. Sentiment in New York was still strongly bullish.

Among early gains in Boston were Alaska Gold ⅛ at 34⅞, Boston Elevated ½ at 58, Boston & Maine ½ at 29½, Butte & Superior ⅝ at 49⅝, Granby ⅛ at 73 and United Fruit ¼ at 120¾.

Early gains in New York included American Can ⅜ at 31⅛, Baltimore & Ohio ⅛ at 73, Chesapeake & Ohio ⅝ at 44⅝, Lehigh Valley ¼ at 137¾, "Katy" ⅛ at 13, New Haven ⅛ at 59½, Pennsylvania ¼ at 108⅛, St. Paul ½ at 90½, Bethlehem Steel 2⅞ at 89⅞ and General Motors 1 at 126. Among declines were Steel ¼, Union Pacific ⅜ and Amalgamated ⅛.

RAILROADS EARNING MORE.

Recent railroads earnings are more encouraging. Erie reports for February an increase of $323,591 in operating revenue and $393,775 in gross. Western Maryland's operating income increased $421,752 and the net earnings of the Canadian Pacific increased $507,453. Boston & Maine reports for the same month that its gross earnings increased $154,279. A number of other important lines made a good showing for the second month of this year. But the improvement was far from being universal. If rail business increases to an extent warranting roads in buying all the supplies they need, the effect upon general trade would be decidedly beneficial.

SCHWAB AGAINST DIVIDEND.

The phenomenal rise in the price of Bethlehem Steel common has started a discussion as to the probability of the corporation declaring a dividend on that security. President Schwab is still at a health resort and has been ill. But it is understood he will return to New York this week. When he gets back, according to rumor, a number of prominent brokers who have dealt largely in Bethlehem common will ask him to start dividends upon it. It is understood, however, that he is still averse to the step. One reason for the recent price advance of the stock is that only about 150,000 shares of it are outstanding. Dealings in it yesterday totalled more than 56,000 shares. It sold as high as 59 and closed at 57. Its low record price was touched in 1907 and was 8. It closed yesterday 47 points above the lowest it has sold for since exchanges reopened after the long war closure.

LOOK FOR REACTION.

Many market students think that a reaction in prices is about due and that there should be a halt to the bull movement. But the majority of traders are as optimistic as they were a week ago, and it looks as if they only reflected the attitude of the public. The latter has been very much impressed by the rise and always loves to get into the swim on a rising tide. February reports as to earnings are regarded by most speculators, as well as by investors, as indicating that the business ebb is over and that from now on there will be a steady growth in trade. Inside interests are supposed to be still buying stocks. There are people who believe that if a slump comes it will affect a number of specialties rather than standard stocks.

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

The Western Union reports for 1915 that gross earnings increased $481,264 and that expenses decreased $1,748,-371.

It is said that the amount of American gold held in Ottawa on Bank of England account is $90,000,000, and that only $18,000,000 of the amount obtained from New York has been returned.

Electrolytic copper is still selling in this country for foreign and domestic account on the basis of 15¾ cents a pound. There is more domestic demand for lead.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

Good Housewives
Make This Cough Syrup.

To quickly cure the most stubborn cough and break up a cold in six to eight hours, there can be nothing better than the following simple remedy, for it has been tried in thousands of cases with wonderful success. Its popularity is increasing because of its cheapness and positive curative virtues.

Obtain of druggists a 2½ oz. package of Essence Mentho-Laxene; empty into a pint bottle. Then make a syrup by pouring a half pint of boiling water over a pint of granulated sugar. Stir, cool and fill up the bottle with syrup. Full directions for use are enclosed in the package. This home-made syrup effects a saving too, of from two to three dollars as compared with labeled cough medicines.

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRISON.

That American motor car manufacturers will find in Germany after the war an exceedingly cold welcome seems evident from the stand taken by the influential Association of German Automobile Clubs, and the Verein Deutscher Motor-Fahrzeug-Industrieller (Association of German Automobile Manufacturers). These two powerful organizations openly declare a complete boycott of all American cars, American accessories and American supplies for German automobiles, and appeal to the patriotism of the German people to support this attitude. As cause for this strong antipathy against American cars is given the alleged "unneutral acts" of American manufacturers who are shipping war trucks, ammunition and supplies to the armies of the allies.

* * *

J. J. McCarthy, who for several years past has had charge of the Lozier service station in this city, has taken over the agency for this car in Boston. Mr. McCarthy is well-known in the local motor world and has had much experience in handling automobiles, especially the Lozier.

* * *

Progress has finally come out victorious in Mt. Desert, Me. By an overwhelming vote the Legislature of Maine has passed the bill admitting automobiles to Mt. Desert. Heretofore this little Maine community was forbidden ground to motorists.

Pinchot to Aid in Food Distribution

THE HAGUE, via London, March 30. —Gifford Pinchot, who is acting as special agent for the State Department at Washington in the European war zone, left here today with Mrs. Pinchot for Brussels. He will proceed to Northeastern France, where he will act as special agent in the distribution of food to the indigent French people within the German lines.

Mrs. Gould's Sister to Wed Englishman

LONDON, March 30.—The engagement is announced of Lieutenant C. B. Evans of the British Navy, youngest son of the late Sir David Evans of Ewell Grove, Surrey, and Mabel Jane Kelly, sister of Mrs. Frank Jay Gould.

From Thin to Plump—Girls.

The expressions of happiness and gratitude of several of his young lady patients for whom he prescribed the recently successful flesh forming product, known as three grain hypo-nuclane tablets, is related by a physician in one of the medical publications and it comes as a surprise to the ordinary layman to learn the heart throbs of distress which seem to affect so many young people who are abnormally thin. Also to know that the weight can be so readily increased by the use, regularly for several months, of this peculiarly named preparation, now obtainable of the best physicians and apothecary shops in sealed packages with complete instructions for self-administration.

CRIES 'DOG,' 'LIAR' IN EVERETT BOARD

The Everett Aldermen held another in their series of stormy sessions when Alderman-at-Large Fred C. Hansen, with flourishing arms, called Alderman John J. Mullen of the board a "yellow dog," a "sneaking coward," and a "d—— liar."

The arraignment followed the action of Mullen, who left the chamber when a motion was to be made on the question of placing the street water assessment in the tax levy.

Earlier in the meeting, when the appropriation of $600 for improvements at the Tuberculosis Hospital came up, Alderman Mullen said: "We have already expended $22,000 on this spending another cent. It is a pub-slaughter-house, and I am opposed to its waste of money. It is bounded by two cemeteries, twenty-nine feet below the street level, backs up to a smallpox hospital, and I know that any member of this board ought to be ashamed to send even a cat there for treatment. I hope that none of you gentlemen will ever have to go there."

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN BOSTON MARCH 30, 1915

BOSTON AMERICAN
50 AND 52 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, MARCH 30, 1915

What Is Sauce for the Goose Is Sauce for the Gander, Mr. Mayor

The AMERICAN regrets Mayor Curley's outburst against the school teachers of Boston. No good can come of it. Nothing Mr. Curley can say would convince a majority of the people of Boston that the teachers of their children ought to suffer a reduction in their salaries.

They get none too much for the character of the work they are required to do. Compared with the remuneration in the ordinary walks of life to those who are obliged to fit themselves by equal preparation for work which requires equal quality of service, the school teachers' pay is small. So long as we continue our present economic and social system by which the quality of service is measured in terms of money, we must pay in proportion to the quality of service which we require.

Mayor Curley's statement that the City of Boston pays its nurses at the City Hospital only six hundred dollars, while the School Committee pays its nurses nine hundred dollars a year, is not impressive. The City of Boston ought to be ashamed to pay its nurses only six hundred dollars a year. Before Mayor Curley took office, they received from the city the same wage they now receive from the School Committee. Their little salaries were reduced by Mr. Curley in the process of his alleged economy. These young women are obliged to give several years of hard, self-sacrificing preparation for their work. It is assumed that they have more than the average intelligence, patience and physical endurance. They are obliged to face contagious and infectious diseases and to endure the most nerve-racking work. If Mr. Curley were obliged to be a nurse himself, he would sing another tune.

Mayor Curley's economies would be more impressive if he practiced them himself. The people of Boston have not forgotten that when he was elected Mayor he tried to hold both his salary as Congressman and his salary as Mayor of Boston. Though he thinks that six hundred dollars a year is quite enough for a nurse, he regarded ten thousand dollars a year for his own distinguished public services small. He wanted also the other seven thousand five hundred dollars as a member of Congress. He did not cease to attempt to draw the two salaries until a resolution of inquiry had been introduced into Congress directed at him.

He sold a good and serviceable automobile belonging to the City which had been attached to the Mayor's office for practically nothing and bought a large and expensive car for his own personal use, which costs the city probably not less than three thousand dollars a year for its maintenance.

He also, since he became Mayor, bought a Summer home at one of our seashore resorts and now he is building a mansion in one of the exclusive sections of the city. Into this mansion he proposes to put luxurious furnishings from the two million dollar palace which belonged to the late Henry H. Rogers, one of the world's richest men and second only to Rockefeller of the Standard Oil Company. A salary which could in two years enable him to expand so rapidly could be voluntarily reduced without the loss of any of the necessaries of life

During this period of ECONOMY FOR OTHERS, Mr. Curley also raised his brother John's draft upon the City's pay-roll from eighteen hundred to five thousand dollars a year.

Mr. John A. Sullivan, at the time Mr. Curley took office, was Chairman of the Finance Commission. He received for that service five thousand dollars a year. Mayor Curley put this gentleman, who had very little, if any, legal experience, at the head of Boston's important law department, increasing his salary to nine thousand dollars a year. His excuse for the promotion of a gentleman who had reviled his personal character so recently and whose personal character he himself had reviled, was that Mr. Sullivan promised to save the city a million dollars a year.

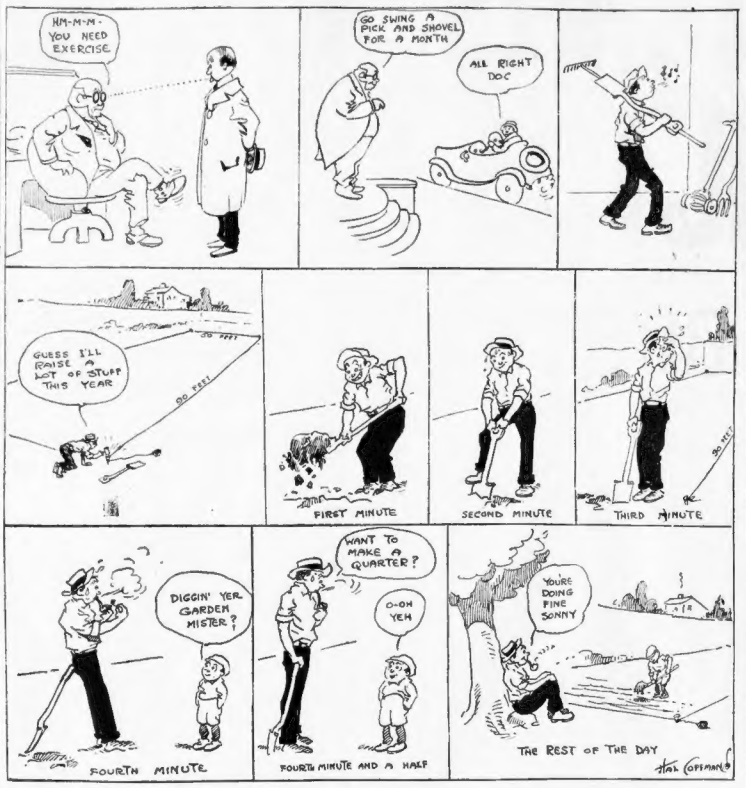
The absurdity of this statement was apparent from the fact that the work of effecting economy belonged to the Finance Commission and NOT to the Law Department. If the Mayor really wanted Mr. Sullivan to effect a million dollar saving, he would have kept him on the Finance Commission, which was especially created for this very work and not for other work.

If honest economy had been his aim, he would not have put an inexperienced lawyer at the head of the Law Department, thus removing him from a department devoted to the work of economy in which he had acquired some experience, and at the same time increasing his salary four thousand dollars a year, while he was reducing the pitiful wages of matrons and nurses

The Curley-Sullivan economy has been followed by an INCREASE IN THE TAX RATE.

For the sake of Boston, the AMERICAN wants Mr. Curley to be the best Mayor he possibly can be while he holds office. But such outbreaks as the attack on the school teachers tend to destroy the esprit de corps of the greatest of all our public functions. If Mr. Curley is ever able to put the question to a test, he will find that the people of Boston do not regret, BUT REJOICE, that the public schools are not in his control and are not obliged to wallow in the mire of present city politics.

And So It Goes



Marvels of Force Shown by Some Simple Formulas

By GARRETT P. SERVISS.

"KINDLY frame an illustration by which one may determine the speed and force an object of given weight and density, shot from our earth, should attain in order that it may pass through our atmosphere into infinity.

"Is it not a recognized fact that centrifugal force, if sufficient, will overcome the power of gravitation, and if so, at what speed would the earth have to revolve to throw off all detachable objects, including our atmosphere?—L. B."

Your first question refers to what is known in astronomy as "parabolic velocity," or "velocity from (or to) infinity." The law governing this velocity is derived by the methods of the calculus, too abstruse to be explained in a brief article, but easily understood and applied when put in the shape of a simple formula. Moreover, if you know this formula you can, at pleasure, solve many very interesting problems relating to the worlds around us.

Briefly stated, the formula is as follows: The square of the velocity equals twice the product of the acceleration of gravity by the radius of the attracting body from, or to, which the motion is directed.

This needs a few words of explanation, but does not require any mathematical knowledge beyond simple arithmetic. The acceleration of gravity means the speed acquired during each second by any body left free to fall at the surface of the attracting body. In your problem the attracting body is the earth, and the acceleration of gravity at the earth's surface is about 32 feet per second; that is to say, a falling body acquires a velocity of 32 feet during the first second, twice 32 feet during the second second, three times 32 feet during the third second, and so on, 32 feet being the amount of velocity constantly added during every second that the fall continues.

The radius of the attracting body, in the case of the earth, is, in round numbers, 4,000 miles, which is the distance from the surface to the centre of the globe. Since the acceleration of gravity is expressed in feet, we must put the radius into feet also before we can make the calculation. This is done by multiplying 4,000 by 5,280, the number of feet in a mile. The product is 21,120,000. Now, the formula tells us to double this number, which accordingly becomes 42,240,000, and then to multiply by 32, the acceleration of gravity. Thus we get, finally, 1,351,680,000. Referring again to the formula, we see that this represents the square of the velocity, and so we must extract the square root of 1,351,680,000 in order to obtain the simple velocity. Without carrying the calculation out to the last figure, we find that the square root required is 36,760. This is the velocity expressed in feet per second, and dividing by 5,280, we find that it amounts to very nearly seven miles per second.

Seven miles per second, then, is the velocity with which a body falling from an infinite distance would strike the surface of the earth, and, conversely, the same velocity would have to be imparted to a projectile shot straight up from the earth in order that it might go to an infinite distance from the earth. We neglect the effect of the resistance that the atmosphere would offer at the start.

As to the force involved that would depend upon the mass, or weight, of the body. If it weighed one ton the momentum, at seven miles per second, would be 73,920,000 foot-pounds.

The answer to your second question is that centrifugal force is perfectly capable of overcoming gravity if the earth's rate of rotation be sufficiently accelerated. The centrifugal force increases as the square of the velocity of rotation. The formula is: Centrifugal force equals the velocity squared, divided by the radius. In the case of the earth the centrifugal force, at the equator, amounts, with the actual velocity of rotation, to 1.289th of the force of gravity. Then, if the velocity were increased seventeen-fold the centrifugal force would balance gravity, because the square of 17 is 289. Any increase of velocity beyond that amount would send things flying off the earth from around the equator. At points north or south of the equator the centrifugal force at a given latitude is ascertained by multiplying the equatorial centrifugal force by the square of the cosine of the latitude.

THE OLD HOUSE

By JANE M'LEAN

A STRAIGHT walk fashioned with a border prim
Where lavender and stately hollyhocks
Grow with some ragged robbins blue and trim,
Sweet William and a bed of pink tipped phlox.

Across the door still straggling grasses stray
And on the door the knocker hangs forlorn
And many feet that one time found their way
Over the steps save left them faintly worn.

Seen through the diamond window panes, inside
The candle sconces droop, the horsehair chairs
Ranged close against the wall, display a wide
Stretch of rag carpet to the dusty stairs.

The old clock silenced now for many a week
The quaint stitched sampler hanging unaware
Are mute reminders of the past, and speak
Of loving hands that once were busy there.

Men as Well as Women, Dorothy Dix Shows, Must Suffer for Sins

Boys Should Be Given Same Warning as Girls Against Dangers of Life, for They, Too, Must Pay Heavy Penalties for Vices

By DOROTHY DIX

THE spectacle of a wealthy manufacturer with polygamous tendencies, who has suddenly been pulled down from his high estate to the level of his lowest victim, calls attention to the one fact that we overlook too often. That is, that a man must pay his score for wrongdoing just as surely as a woman must.

There have been many cases of men who have boldly proclaimed defiance of conventions and snapped their fingers at the laws of God and man, and who, after their names have become a by-word and a hissing in the mouths of decent people, have changed their opinions about how far a man may safely flout the moralities.

There is no more curious fallacy than the generally accepted belief that the thorns along the primrose path pierce only the feet of the women that walk it, and that men may daily unscathed among its flowers.

No Greater Mistake Than to Think Man Can Leave Woman to Settle

Because the law will send a woman to a penal establishment and let the man who made her what she is go free; because we draw our skirts away from the girl who has sinned, generally through loving not wisely but too well, and invite the man who has deceived her to dinner, the belief has grown up among men that they can do as they please and leave the score for the woman to settle alone.

Never was there a greater mistake. Undoubtedly, the woman who sins does have to pay the heaviest penalty. Nature and society both punish her more severely than they do the man for diverging from the straight and narrow path. But no man so deceives himself as he who thinks that he can repudiate his debt for wrongdoing and lay it on the woman's shoulders. Ultimate justice collects blood money from him, too.

What we sow we reap, and the one harvest that every man must garner is his wild oats crop. That law is inexorable. A man's sins follow him to the latest day of his life, and sooner or later he has to settle for them.

Penitentiaries Filled with Men Who Thought They Could Gamble in Safety

Young men think that they can drink, and because they are not immediately ostracized for reeling through the streets, as a woman would be, they think that the public condones that weakness in a man, and that they will not have to pay for it. But they are mistaken. They pay first in shattered nerves and weakened brain power, and they pay finally, and for all time, in failure. No business man advances the drunkard in his office, no business man puts a drunkard in places of responsibility, and so in the end the drunkard pays his debt to the bottle in rags and squalor.

Other men have thought that they could gamble without paying the gambler's debt. The penitentiaries are full of them. They thought that they would know when to stop, but the lure of the game got them. Honest work became too slow a way to make money, and there came a day when a man broken on the wheel of chance was flung out into the discard of humanity.

Many men think that there is a double standard of morality for men and women, and that while a woman must keep herself clean, and pure, and above reproach, that no such obligation is laid upon a man. They believe that a man may take his pleasure as he finds it without having to pay the price.

This fatal error has sent millions of young men down to disease and death. It has made millions of other homes childless, for many a grim old man knows that he is paying in the loneliness of his age for the follies of his youth.

Men believe that they can love and ride away. Sometimes they can. Sometimes the woman that they thought to leave behind them is a vampire who fastens herself upon them and sucks their very life blood out of them.

Many a man is kept poor by the insatiable demands of some bad woman for money that he dare not refuse to give her. Many a man is balked in his ambition because of the black shadow some woman casts across his pathway. An evil woman can blight a boy's life just as completely and effectually as an evil man can ruin a girl's.

And the men who lead a double life, the married men who have affinities, is any one foolish enough to think they do not pay?

Warn Boys as Well as Girls Against Sin, for Both Must Suffer

Do you not think the man pays who in torn between the jealousies of two women; who must daily lie to them both; who must continually tread a crooked path, and who lives in dread of being found out and having his affairs published to the world and made to look contemptible and ridiculous in the public eye?

Such a man pays in losing his own self-respect, he pays in forfeiting the good opinion of those who know him, and he pays even in a business way if he is discovered, because we all want to deal with the sort of men who have builded their lives four square to the world.

We spend our time warning our girls against the dangers of life and the temptations of the flesh, and preaching to them that the wages of sin is death. We might with equal propriety give the same advice to our sons, because for his wrongdoing a man must pay in sorrow and bitterness even as a woman pays.

The Mayor's Right to Invoke the People's Will Should Not Be Questioned

The Boston Finance Commission has rendered an opinion against Mayor Curley's proposal to increase the tax rate by two dollars for the purpose of abolishing the city debt.

The Commission's argument is convincing. But a discussion of THE MERITS of Mayor Curley's plan is not decisive of the present issue. The immediate question is not whether the Mayor's plan is sound, but whether the Legislature shall permit the people of Boston to pass upon it.

On every sound principle of home rule Mr. Curley's demand in this respect should be granted. He is the chief magistrate of the city, chosen by the people, and his opinion should have sufficient weight, by virtue of his office alone, to invoke the people's judgment on any question which he thinks sufficiently important.

When the plan comes before the city, then will be the time to discuss its merits. In the meantime it would be well to perfect the plan so that it may be presented to the people in the best possible form. If it is sound in principle, it ought not be endangered by any defect which is not inherent.

Alaire Austin, a woman of rare beauty and wonderful courage, is the type of heroine that is interesting the public in the big, thrilling story of the year
